American "Peace Commission" Will Strive For Economic Peace In World

NEW YORK, May 31.—Another American "peace commission" sets out for London today on a mission as fateful as any since Versailles.

Economic peace—not military—is the goal of this venture, and upon its success or failure may depend commercial peace or warfare throughout the world in the critical years ahead.

The American delegates, embracing six principals and a score of technical advisers, are hopeful rather than sanguine. Events of the past year, particularly the pronounced trend toward economic nationalism in all countries, have not been calculated to enhance the chances for a successful conference at London.

May Change Policy
Nevertheless, every effort will be made at the conference to stabilize international currency, lower tariff barriers and eradicate other Cascade park got away to a good start for the season under control of the city yesterday. There was a large crowd at the grounds during the day and evening, despite the weather conditions. People of New Castle who are interested in Cascade park must remember that it is up to them whether or not the city will continue to operate the park. Patronage of the public is necessary if the park is to be kept open.

New Castle was electrified on Monday afternoon when the news was conveyed through this paper that orders had been received for re-emption of 12 hot mills at the New Castle plant of the American Sheet & Tin Plate company. Coming on top of other optimistic industrial news of the past few weeks, it was an announcement that will greatly stimulate business of the city.

Parts of a rainbow were visible almost all afternoon yesterday. Between the rain, the clouds and the PEIPING, May 31.—Bringing a feeling of vast relief to American and other foreign residents of Peiping, Japanese officials announced this morning that a truce has been signed with the Chinese for cessation of hostilities in North China. The truce was agreed upon by Chinese and Japanese negotiators meeting at Tangku, the announcement said.

Fighting fires is one thing and trapping deer another, but they are all in the life of a fireman, for Tuesday morning, they assisted in the capture of a young doe, just across the street from the Central fire station in the heart of the city.

Fire Chief H. Clare Stockman, and some of the firemen were just ready to leave for the cemeteries to decorate the graves of their comrades when the doe was seen coming up over the west bank of the Neshannock, where the old Rosena dam was formerly located.

It leisurely walked down towards the fire station, stopped there bewildered as an automobile, cutting through from Jefferson to the foot of Mercer street, approached, and then started on across Jefferson street.

The doors of a room built onto the side of the Pennzill gasoline station, which contains the greasing pit were open and the deer, sighting the opening made for it. As it approached, it noticed the pit yawning in front and setting its hoofs, tried to stop but was unable to and slid into the pit.

Chief Stockman and several of the firemen ran across and closed

Seven Thousand At Cascade Park

Park Opens Under City Control In Auspicious Manner

RAIN PREVENTS NIGHT FIREWORKS

Although rain fell yesterday, it failed to dampen the ardor of Cascade Park enthusiasts, and it was impossible to travel to any part of the recreation center without seeing congregations of people. The park is now a municipal operation.

C. C. Coulthard, supervisor of Cascade Park, estimated the crowd in the park in the afternoon at 7,000, and last night Rainbow Terrace was filled to overflowing capacity. The parking plot was the scene of considerable activity. Many cars, however, were parked along East Washington street. No difficulty was experienced by park attaches handling the parking situation.

At 11 o'clock rain fell in such a quantity that it was impossible to display the fireworks, and, according to B. J. Blom, the display will be given at 11 p. m. Saturday night.

The concessionaires and bathing pool owner reported a good afternoon's business. Many cars operated through the park and also over the lower road to the South Side. However, this road will be closed, it is said, to allow the road to be put in good condition for travel.

Holds New Castle Field Club Protest Is For Members Of Club To Settle

SIX CASES ARE HELD UNDER ADVISEMENT

Estimated That Licenses Granted Will Bring $20,000 To Treasury

Daily printed license certificates, entitling the holders to dispense regulation beer, are being handed out by County Treasurer William O. Pitts today, as a result of hearings held last week. The retail licenses are printed in green and the wholesale in gold.

Club licenses were the first to be handed out this morning. All the clubs applying conformed to the requirements of the act and were granted licenses. There was a protest signed by ten members against the granting of a license to the New Castle Field club.

The remonstrance was made on the grounds that by-law No. 20 provides that "no alcoholic liquor shall be kept or used in the club house or grounds." Treasurer Pitts held that he has nothing to do with the by-laws of the club. "This is a matter for the club members to settle among themselves," he said.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The publication of a new "who's who" of J. Pierpont Morgan's "favored clients" was expected to furnish a fresh sensation today at the senate banking inquiry, into which a Broadway murder and two mysteries were injected over the Memorial holiday.

The mysteries involved two stock transactions by the Morgan firm, perfectly legal and proper, but spiced with tremendous sensation. One related to a private sale of stock by Morgan to one of America's best known political leaders, recently deceased. The other touched a prominent business man, who bought on Morgan stock at cut-rate prices and then repudiated a second offer on the ground its purchase was unethical. Both mysteries were to be solved by the bright light of publicity this week.

SEEKS PROBE OF MELLON TAX RETURNS

Would Scan Tax Incomes Paid By Mellon And Mills

Senator McKellar, Tennessee, Offers Resolution For Extensive Probe

ASK INFORMATION BY REVENUE BUREAU

Income Tax Figures Filed By Mellon And Mills Will Be Scrutinized

(International News Service) WASHINGTON, May 31.—A full disclosure of all details of the income taxes paid by Andrew D. Mellon and Ogden L. Mills, former secretaries of the treasury, from 1917 to 1933, was demanded today by Senator McKellar (D) of Tennessee, author of a resolution authorizing such an inquiry.

McKellar declared the banking inquiry's revelation that 20 partners of J. P. Morgan & company paid no income taxes in 1931 or 1932 was a "shocking thing". He made no charges against either Mellon or Mills but asked for all details of the taxes they paid and for information whether either was allowed rebates, reductions or refunds.

Asks For Report

In his resolution of inquiry, McKellar included a long list of Mellon banks, aluminum and oil companies. He asked for a report on all federal taxes paid by these corporations, including Mellon National bank and Union Savings bank of Pittsburgh, the Aluminum Company of America, the Gulf Refining company, the Pittsburgh Plate Glass company, the Standard Steel Car company and various subsidiaries.

McKellar's resolution called on the Internal Revenue bureau to furnish the senate with this information. If his resolution is not acted on promptly, McKellar said he would introduce another one, authorizing the senate banking and currency committee to investigate taxes of Mellon, Mills and the Mellon concerns.

Must Know Facts

"The Morgan inquiry shows how necessary it is to know these things, so that we can pass the necessary kind of a tax bill," said McKellar. "I think the revelations we have had about income taxes in the last few days, ought to make us examine very carefully any more tax legislation. "If these two former treasury officials and their companies made their income tax returns fairly and honestly, with no improper rebates, I don't see how they can object to this information going before the senate. "The Morgan inquiry has brought out shocking revelations. The public is entitled to know how these leaders have administered the income tax law. I hope there will be no objection in the senate to my resolution. If there is any objection, I am going to offer a resolution, broadening the scope of the investigation by Senator Fletcher and counsel Pecora, so as to include Mellon and Mills and their companies."

The doe had been sighted at East New Castle and in South New Castle Boro earlier in the day, and evidently had been chased up Mill street or the streets paralleling Mill street, to the grounds of the Carnegie Steel Company, where it cut across to the river.

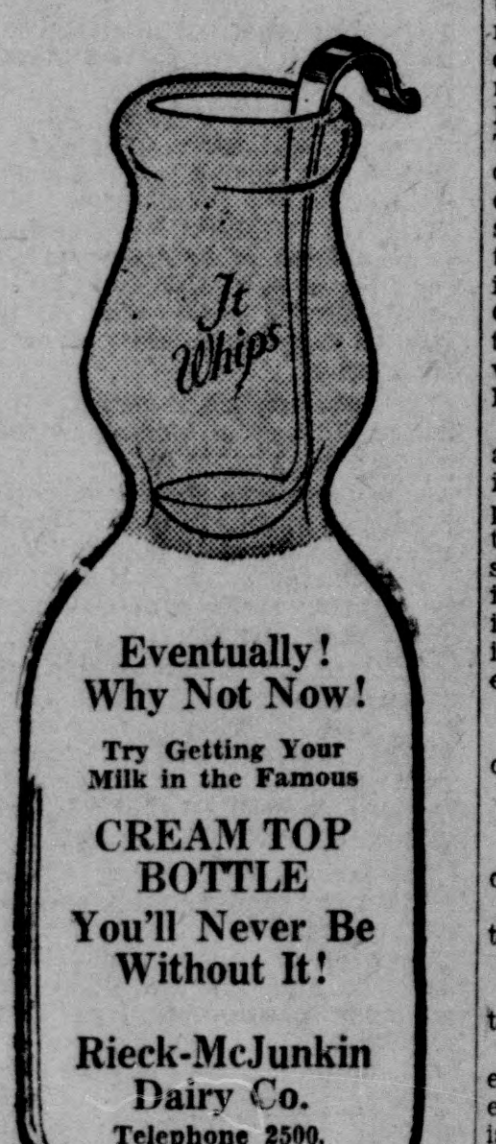

It leaped off the stone wall on the east bank, or 10 or 12 feet down into the bed of the stream and then up the bank on the opposite side. It bore a number of marks where it had evidently injured itself when chased by people who had seen it at different locations about the city, but was not badly hurt and seemed little the worse for its experience.

Everything seems little against the eternal background.

Police were able to learn little or nothing concerning the identity of the assailants. From the victims police learned there were four of the executioners. They drew up to the curb in a closed automobile as the six victims and four other men were standing about the entrance of the cafe. The gunmen swarmed out of the car, waving their weapons.

"Get in there," they commanded, waving at the entrance to the cafe. "You will call us rats, will you?" Lined Against Wall.

With their hands in the air the men and the boy filed into the cafe. The gunmen followed. They lined their victims against the wall and then began shooting.

Screams and curses mingled with the staccato pistol shots as the victims attempted to find shelter behind the lunch counter, tables and chairs in the cafe, four of the men apparently escaped injury, for the police could find no trace of them.

Each of the six victims was hit by one bullet. Police found nearly a dozen other bullets imbedded in the walls of the cafe.

Having emptied their guns, the gangsters ran back to their waiting car, leaped into it and disappeared.

The wounded men staggered out of the building. Charles Dominico, 27, first to reach the street, fell dead before the eyes of the onlookers, the other victims were:

artificial trade restrictions. If these efforts fail and there are many who believe they will—then there is little left for the United States but to embark upon a new policy of economic nationalism that will make the present one seem mild in comparison.

The administration is prepared for either eventuality. Both at London and at Geneva, President Roosevelt has offered the world a greater degree of American cooperation than any president has offered since Woodrow Wilson. If it is accepted the United States is prepared to "go along" in a common international effort to stabilize economic conditions throughout the world; if it is declined, then Washington is prepared to go it alone in the trade routes of the world.

In the background of the conference lurks the ghostly spectre of the debts. They are not on the agenda, officially they are not a part of the conference, yet they promise to overshadow all the topics listed for discussion and negotiation.

Listen To Debt Proposals

So far as the American delegates are concerned, their role with regard to the debts will be listening. They are under instructions to listen politely to any proposals made on the debts, and to relay them to Washington. President Roosevelt has reserved for himself the responsibility of dealing with this "hot potato" of international politics.

The conference meets on June 12. By that time the principal debtors will either have decided to pay or to default on their June 15 installments, amounting to some $140,000,000.

The American Delegation that sails today is rather different from other American delegations that have crossed the Atlantic in previous years. "Big Names" are conspicuously absent. Few of them have had any experience in international negotiation.

Make Up Of Delegation

There is Secretary of State Cordell Hull, lately removed from the senate ranks. He is making his first trip abroad. There are the chairmen of the senate and house foreign committees, Senator Jay Pittman (D) of Nevada, and Rep. Sam McReynolds (D) of Tennessee. There is ex-governor James M. Cox of Ohio, an internationalist of the old Wilson school; and R. D. Morrison, a retired banker of San Antonio, Texas, a little known figure in such undertakings. Senator Jas. Couzens (R) of Michigan, who tends toward independence in all things, will join the delegation in London later.

These with the economic advisers and experts in various lines, including several members of the so-called professional "brain trust" constitute the American representation. It is somewhat different from the imposing names that have gone abroad in other years to speak for the United States in international conferences.

Themes To Be Discussed

The agenda for the conference calls for discussion on these topics:

1. Monetary and credit policy

2. Commodity prices

3. Resumption of the movement of capital

4. Restrictions on international trade

5. Tariff and treaty policy

6. Organization of production and trade

NEW SENSATIONS ARE EXPECTED IN PROBE OF MORGAN

jected into the inquiry when it became the basis of an attack on Ferdinand Pecora, brilliant senate counsel.

J. C. Hackett of New York, was reported to have sent members of the senate banking and currency committee a complaint, attacking Pecora's handling of the murder while assistant district attorney in New York City. John Kearsley Mitchell, a son-in-law of E. T. Stotesbury, Morgan partner, was a friend of the murdered girl. The committee was unimpressed by the attack and was prepared to ignore it.

Glass Demands Information

The investigating committee held a secret session prior to the open hearing in order to let Senator Carter Glass, former secretary of the treasury, get an "earful" about Pecora's plans. Glass demanded advance information on Pecora's program and the attorney expressed willingness to take the whole committee into his confidence. It was expressly understood, however, that no effort would be made to hamstring Pecora or to gag the inquiry.

The new "favored client" list was to involve prominent politicians, bankers and business executives who accepted a Morgan offer to get in on the "ground floor" of United Corporation, the great utility holding company. Morgan was understood to have given 291 prominent citizens the opportunity to buy one share of preferred stock and one share of common stock at $75—when the market value was in excess of $100.

Gigantic Corporation

Morgan dominated this corporation, through the purchase of its securities. He invested $50,000,000 to start the company, which grew into a $600,000,000 corporation in three years. After it was launched he bought 400,000 shares of common stock at $22.50 a share and 1,000,000 option warrants at $1 each, which entitled him to buy just that many more shares of common stock at $27.50 a share. When he got the warrants, the stock was selling on the exchange for $56 a share and later went to $67 before he exercised his options.

Two more lists were held by Pecora for future revelation. They were the "favored clients" of Morgan in floating Niagara-Hudson Power Corporation and Johns-Manville Corporation stocks. He offered 50,000 shares of the power stock in December 1928, to a "selected list" at $25 a share. It later doubled in value. He offered 50,000 shares of Johns-Manville at $57.50 a share—somewhat under the market value.

Two Lists Revealed

Pecora already has spread two cut-rate lists on the record. These revealed groups given Morgan large stakes in Allegheny Corporation and Standard Brands, Inc. stock. Secretary of the Treasury William H. Woodin, Senator William Gibbs McAdoo and a host of other political lights were on both lists.

Former President Calvin Coolidge was on the Standard Brands list. With others, he purchased the stock at $32 a share in September, 1929. It later rose about ten points—but collapsed when the market crashed in October. The Allegheny Corporation stock was offered Morgan's friends at $20 a time when it sold on the market for from $35 to $37 a share.

There were "no strings" on Morgan's offer, as William Ewing, his partner, wrote Woodin, and the recipients could "sell at any time." Some did, profiting nicely—others held on to their sorrow.

IS HANDING OUT LICENSES TODAY

der those conditions there was nothing for me to do but grant the license. If the club's by-laws prohibit, that is a matter for the members," he concluded.

Some Held Under Adversement

All of the applications are being granted with the exception of the following, which are not definitely turned down as yet, but which are being held under advisement.

Waldorf Restaurant on the Diamond; Madison Lunch, 105 West Lawrence street; Nick Billo, East Washington Street Extension; Patsy Biscardi, Seventh street, Ellwood City; Hermine Ring, Lakewood; and Mary Sarto, city.

There were several who applied who were told before the hearings that licenses would not be granted to them, and therefore the did not present any testimony at the hearings.

Treasurer Pitts did not give his reasons for the holding up of the above cases under advisement, simply saying that he wished to give them further consideration.

When the licenses are all taken up the fees will add a considerable sum to the county treasury. There are in the neighborhood of 160 in all. The fees for the club licenses are $25; for retail licenses in New Castle and Ellwood City, $150; wholesale, $75. In the country districts the retail license is $75. It is estimated that the revenue to be derived will be around $20,000. In addition to the license fee, each applicant paid $10 when the application was filed.

Treasurer Pitts, with his attorney J. Glenn Berry, have headquarters in a jury room today, where the licenses are being handed out as fast as the applicants come in and pay their money.

CURRENT EVENTS '23 LUNCHEON DELIGHTFUL

Perfect in every detail was the beautifully appointed luncheon held Monday afternoon by Mrs. W. H. Shipley when she received members of the Current Events of '23 in her home on Highland avenue for their last gathering of the season. Cordial greetings were extended each guest as they arrived, and at 1 o'clock they were seated about large tables attractively arranged in spring tones. Places marked for 30.

A sumptuous menu was served by the hostess, assisted by the social committee, Mrs. R. W. Garraway, chairman. Bouquets of yellow and purple lilies adorned the rooms throughout.

Leslie proposed a picnic outing at her home sometime in July with husbands of the members as special guests.

Most unique was the "art display" arranged in the library. When the guests entered in groups and viewed the articles portraying "her first grief" being represented by a broken doll, and kids at rest, suggested by a pair of kid gloves on a pillow, etc., that proved most entertaining. After being in there, five minutes each was requested to write the names of articles on display, and Mrs. C. W. Mayberry was awarded the prize, having listed 50.

Regular sessions of the class will be resumed in September.

MISS FLORENCE SCOTT WEDS PHILLIP WINTER

Most impressive and one of the seasons loveliest weddings was that which took place Tuesday morning, May 30, at 9:30 o'clock in the Epworth Methodist Episcopal church, when Miss Florence Scott, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Scott, of Whippoor street, became the bride of Phillip R. Winter, son of Phillip R. Winter, Sr. of Zellenople.

The bride, becomingly gowned in crisp white organdie, the latest style decreed with large puff sleeves and flared circular skirt, wore a white crepe turban encircled with a wreath of velvet leaves and nosegay. Her arm bouquet was of pink roses and snapdragons. She was given away by her father and the vows were exchanged in the presence of guests numbering two hundred.

The pastor officiating with the single service. Appropriate wedding music was rendered on the organ by Mrs. Harold Infield, nee Isabelle Zehner of Akron, Ohio which included, "Until," "At Dawning," and the Lohengrin Wedding chorus.

Attending the bride was Mrs. John Elmes of Beaver Falls, matron of honor who was attired in a yellow organdie frock and headpiece patterned on the same lines with accessories to harmonize. She carried a quaint Colonial bouquet.

Lee Winter, of New York served his brother as best man.

During the congratulatory period the swelling chords of "I Love You Truly" and "O Love That Will Not Let Me Go" were heard. As the bride party left the church for the Scott residence where an informal reception was held the Mendelssohn Wedding March was played.

Later in the day Mr. and Mrs. Winter departed on an extended Western motor trip. For traveling the bride chose a pouf blue summer wool suit with beige accessories. She is a graduate of the New Castle Senior High school with the class of '28 and the groom also received his diploma from the same institution in '29. STALLING ON THE JOB
Sure, you are going to do those little jobs around your home, "one of these days."
But if you are like most men it may be months, even years, before you wake up to the fact that you are pledged to give certain jobs your attention.
First of all you don't like the sort of effort involved.
You are not particularly interested in having the improvements made.
You have lived so long without them, why not continue to do so.
Of course the plans should really be carried out, you know that.
They would improve your premises and perhaps protect your property.
And they would please certain members of your family.
But at times you get intensely irritated at the family group because they grow insistent that you attend to these jobs.
You are waiting to "feel like" doing the work.
When the inspiration comes you will go earnestly about it.
You know you won't, unless urged to do so, and then, to enjoy peace, you may get it done some way, but not so well as if you were more personally for it.
Just what is it you are stalling on, today?
There is something, is there not?

THE NEWEST FAD
No household can be built so strong To shut out facts that come along.
Set sentries at each door and gate, They'll enter just as sure as fate.
In seven and twenty years and more I've seen skirts sweep the parlor floor,
Then climb by Fashion's stern decrees Until they scarcely hid her knees.
Talk as I would, 'twas all in vain, The newest fad awhile would reign.
To keep in style she bobbed her hair, Then picked out funny hats to wear.
Came Mah Jongh with its tiles to Nor all my strength could hold it back;
But when the lure of that was gone The Jig-saw puzzle followed on.
What next is done? What lies ahead?
What newest fad have I to dread?
This terrifying shock awaits That Ma will fall for roller skates! (Copyright, 1933, Edgar A. Guest)

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

"A SCRAP OF PAPER?"
Ever since the German Army took their short cut through Belgium in 1914, the world has leered whenever a solemn Treaty was discussed and called it "A Scrap of Paper."
Just as they called the German-Belgium Treaty, which the Prussians so willfully broke.
Now there is a suggestion that this country may also lay itself open to the jeers of the world. Ever since the embargo was made upon gold, the question has arisen: "What about the solemn obligations of this country to pay the principal and interest upon Liberty Bonds in gold?"
Everyone who owns a Liberty Bond, visualizes its bright yellow exterior, which to the holder means a promise of gold. The bond itself solemnly promises that the interest and principal is payable in gold.
Now, gold is gold. It is not paper and should a foreign holder of a million dollars worth of Liberty Bonds demand his interest in gold, what is this Government going to do?
Is the Liberty Bond to become "A Scrap of Paper?"

Regulation Of Oil Industry Put Among Needed Reforms

Proposed Action Of Government Has Earnest Support In Producing Area And Is Recognized As Vital To National Conservation

Governmental moves in the direction of Federal control of the production of oil receive approval not only from the region of the oil wells, but also from those who are advocates of the conservation of natural resources. Waste is held to be the great evil in this field, and the purpose to put the matter under the jurisdiction of the secretary of the interior is in harmony with efforts in other direction to make proper use of the nation's assets and prevent "ruinous competition."

"President Roosevelt seeks results along the lines of the greatest good to the greatest number," asserts the FORT WORTH STAR-TELEGRAM, with the belief that "he would preserve values, and make profits commensurate with investment, material and labor." The Texas paper holds that its own State was the cause of "the Federal movement toward oil regulation," and makes the comment: "Since the discovery of oil in East Texas it has been easily obvious that this State occupied a key position in the world's oil industry. If a conservative stand had been taken and maintained in one of the largest operating fields in the North American continent—that of East Texas—the tremendous scope of industry directly influenced by crude oil and by its by-products would not have been this factor it was in the retardation of our climb out of the depression. The message of President Roosevelt will doubtless justify Congress in taking the action recommended. It is the only way out, now that every other method has failed, and justifiable as such. Crude oil as a State's natural resource should be a matter of state control. States should conserve it and profit by the revenues from it. If they will not and insist on wasting it, the only recourse is to control it through a species of Interstate Commerce Commission regulation. During the period of temporary and arbitrary control of the flow of the East Texas field there was a distinct improvement in the entire oil industry. Judging the future by the past, it is almost certain that federal control will cause the oil industry to be, the leader in that which has been called 'return of prosperity.'"

"Waste of oil and gas," says the OKLAHOMA CITY TIMES, "has become destructive to a heritage that cannot be replaced," and that paper urges haste in measures to "curb the waste that has long been characteristic of oil development." The Times points to the difference between production of this natural resource, and other activities on the land, with the summary of conditions: "Surplus crops may go to the dumps in an effort to bolster prices. And hungry citizens make righteous protests. But more crops will be grown. In this fertile and productive land, the food supply of the future is long assured. Our lumbering methods have been ruthless and wasteful, and for such blundering and cupidity a heavy penalty is paid in needless floods, polluted streams and soil erosion. But now the work of reforestation gains momentum. There will be forests again where waste lands are today. Men have not learned to replace the mineral wealth, once it is exhausted." The Oklahoma paper also argues: "The greatest service the government can perform in this particular industry is to prevent future waste of oil and gas and regulate development on sound economic lines, thus saving the huge expense of drilling needless wells. When we realize that natural gas, worth far more than the oil produced, has been wasted in the Oklahoma City field, it is evident how great is the need for better conservation regulations than this state has devised or enforced. That many new wells were drilled then would have been needed under an orderly development on a unit basis is evidence of further needless extravagance here."

"Something has to be done; we have a resource that is literally being thrown away," is a statement by Secretary Ickes, which is quoted by the SPOKANE SPOKESMAN-REVIEW, and the paper comments: "Waste of our national resources is the country's besetting sin—waste of the forests; waste of the soil by excessive cropping and erosion; waste of our metals under forced production and world competitive prices, which leave to this country less than a moiety of its equities in these resources. For 60 years, since the building of San Francisco brought into brisk demand the lumber from Puget Sound and the Columbia river area, we have been sacrificing this rich resource, often at cutthroat prices, that broke hundreds of manufacturers and left scant profits to those strong enough to survive. The Secretary of the Interior is right—something has to be done."

"Chaos in this great industry" would be prevented by the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL with the understanding that the government "intends to act quickly," and the belief that "the only comparable economic waste of a valuable natural resource was long years ago when much of the timber lands of the nation was denuded." The Journal adds: "Thought was chiefly centered on the necessities of the time and probably not at all on the requirements of future generations. The same lack of forethought has been apparent in the oil industry for years. With the posted price of crude oil down recently to ten cents a barrel, it is obvious that serious overproduction is being practiced. Even this week posted prices in certain areas have been as low as twenty-five cents a barrel. The abnormally low price quotations, serious though they are in themselves, represent only a current problem in private business management that will yield to intelligent treatment. But the regrettable economic waste which such low prices reflect is a problem of vital national concern, profoundly affecting the future of the country."

"There should be no quarrel with the purpose to confer upon the Secretary of the Interior powers to regulate the production of petroleum," thinks the WALL STREET JOURNAL, which reviews previous efforts: "Ever since the war it has become increasingly evident that oil was destined to play a great part in our national economy, and that the store of it should be guarded. President Coolidge became so impressed with this fact that in December, 1924, he appointed three members of his cabinet as a conservation board to study the subject, and in his announcement of that appointment made the following points: Present methods of production are wasteful because of competitive drilling. Our national defense and the supremacy of the United States may be determined by available deposits of petroleum. A further shortage of fuel oil, lubricating oil and gasoline must be avoided. State Policeman J. J. Hennicke, who has been in charge of the local detachment of Troop D, state police, in this city since January, will be succeeded here June 1, by State Trooper Andrew Hughmanick of Troop D. Hughmanick arrived here several days ago. Hennicke is to have charge of the police department at Presque Island, Lake Erie. He was stationed there last summer. There is a department of seven patrolmen at Presque Island. It has been the custom to put a member of the state police in charge of the department. Hennicke's efficiency won him a return to the island this summer. Hughmanick, who will succeed him as officer in charge here, has a very efficient record with Troop D. He has worked on and helped solve several of the most important cases that have come to the attention of Troop D details in the last year or so. On duty here with Hughmanick are troopers Paul Engle and Jack Bradbury. All of them have been in the state police for years and the detail of three here composes one of the most efficient details in the state.

JUNE 7 SET AS DEPARTURE DATE FOR FORESTERS

Announce County's Second Delegation Ready; To Be Examined Here

Lawrence county's second regiment of foresters, already chosen and notified of their selection, will leave for a U. S. Army camp on Wednesday, June 7, a week from today, it was announced today. Three other counties, Venango, Mercer and Butler, will send recruits here that day to undergo medical examinations with local recruits and to leave that same night, if accepted, for camp.
The Lawrence County Emergency Relief board, besieged with calls from scores of youths, made it plain again today that the county's final quota has been filled and notified. Not another recruit will be enlisted. While 112 is the quota a wire story allotted New Castle and the county today, committee leaders say only 84 have been asked for by their headquarters. However, the 28 additional men will be ready to go, they assured, if 112 are requested. They have already been selected.
New Castle's first 100 foresters reached Trout Run, Pa., their forest camp point, on Monday. They had trained at Fort Washington, Md.

HEAVILY ARMED POSSES HUNT 11 CONVICTS

character in the southwest since the reign of the James boys. Underhill led the prison break.
Prather disclosed that one of the convicts, Harvey Bailey, bank robber and desperado, was shot and seriously wounded during the flight.
Three Women Abducted
After ejecting Prather and the guards, L. A. Lawes and J. H. Sherman, the convicts sped on toward the Osage hills belated where authorities believe they will be joined at a rendezvous by the remaining five fugitives who abducted three women whose car they commandeered six miles south of here in their mad dash for freedom. Growing fear was expressed here for the safety of the women, one of whom, Mrs. Alberta Wood, is an invalid.
Telephoning the prison here, Prather said Underhill and his companions at first threatened to kill their three hostages during the wild ride, but later decided to free them. The warden said he was hurrying back to the penitentiary to direct the search for the kidnapped women. Mrs. Wood and her daughter, Louise, 17, and Miss Florence Wears, 17. The Woods are residents of Kansas City and Miss Wears is from Higgins, Texas.
Man-Hunt Under Way
Gov. William A. Murray of Oklahoma and Gov. Alf Landon of Kansas early today completed plans for a concerted man-hunt in which troops of both states will be used to track down the felons.
Both groups of escaping felons continued to evade the widespread hunt for them throughout the night, although police of Parsons, Kas., at one time were close on their trail.
Warden Prather, who will be succeeded today by a new appointee, Lacey Sampson, credited his release to a bottle of liquor upon which the convicts became convivial.
Before they imbibed the whiskey they had promised to kill their three captives when they reached safety.

was told by Warden Kirk Prather today in a telephone conversation with the state penitentiary here.
Mellowed by a bottle of liquor which they passed from one to another the desperadoes, led by Wilbur Underhill, three times a murderer, decided not to carry out their threats to kill Prather and two prison guards.
"They got pretty jovial," Prather explained, "and finally decided to let us go after threatening to 'bump us off.'"
"Two of them had just finished fixing a puncture outside of Welch, Okla., when Underhill said, 'this is where we're going to bump you off in these hills.'"
Ordered Out
"Then Underhill said, 'you've been a pretty square guy, warden; I've never met a better warden.'"
The automobile stopped on a dark road and the convict leader ordered them out.
"I thought they were going to kill us there because all the convicts stepped out. Bob Bailey was badly wounded."
"They asked us if we had any cash, and when we had only a dollar bill, Underhill handed me a dollar bill."
"Take it; you might need it for some grub," Underhill said.
"Then the car sped off into the hills and, we started the ten mile hike back to town."

Tells Of Break

Lansing, Kas., May 31.—"At first it looked like a wholesale prison break."
This was the description given today by George Meeker, an eyewitness to the spectacular escape of eleven felons from the state penitentiary who took Warden Kirk Prather and two guards along as hostages. Meeker was umpiring a baseball game in the prison yard when the break occurred.
"At the start of the fifth inning I saw a sudden disturbance where the warden was sitting. Convicts, some of them waving weapons, leaped up all about him," Meeker declared.
"I saw five or six prisoners following close behind Warden Prather and three guards as they moved across the field. They had all four covered. Several other convicts joined the break as the leaders shouted for other prisoners to join them."
"Everything was confusion for a moment and it looked bad. But the back-to-cells alarm was sounded and in a short time the field was cleared."
"I saw the escaping convicts pushing the warden ahead of them to the southeast corner of the walls. There they made him order the guard to throw down all the guns up there."
The leaders appeared nervous and kept prodding Prather with their weapons, Meeker said.
"Next they went to the No. 1 tower and where the guard was forced to throw down his guns. They then scaled the wall into the tower and all went through a door to the outside."

Street Car Figures In One Of The Accidents Reported To Police

Paul A. Zarilla of 1020 North Ashland avenue reported Tuesday that while he was driving the car of Victor Zarilla north on Moravia street and was making a left turn onto the viaduct at Mahoning avenue, that his machine collided with street car No. 362, operated by Operator Hensley, which was enroute east on the viaduct. Some damage was done to both the machine and the car.

Former Pupils To Meet Thursday Night

Final Plans Will Be Made For The Reunion Planned For The Near Future
Former pupils of the Martin Gantz school in fact every boy and girl of the yesterdays, who ever darkened the doorway of that once famous and practically only educational institution of the district, are requested to be at the meeting called for Thursday evening at 8 p. m. D. S. T. in the North Street school.
They are also requested to bring along all their ideas of the best way to make the reunion planned at the George Washington Junior High school in the immediate future, a success, so that plans that will make the occasion enjoyable to all, can be arranged.
The fact that there are among these former pupils, some who played hooky or held the record for the most punishment and others, who may have become both wealthy and famous, is no excuse for them being absent from either this meeting or the reunion, when it is held.
It is hoped to make this event one of the greatest in the history of the reunions of this kind that have become so frequent in recent years.

28th Division Vets To Gather

Plans For Big Reunion Here
Next Month Will Be Made Sunday

EXPECT BIG CROWD AT TWO-DAY SESSIONS

Plans for the reunion of the veterans of the 28th Division, A. E. F., in the Western Pennsylvania district, will be furthered at a meeting of the Kahle-Ashton Post, Society of the 28th Division, A. E. F., in the armory on Sunday.

A varied program of entertainment is being arranged for the two-day meeting on June 17 and 18, at Castle Beach, when reminiscences will be swapped by the survivors of one of the greatest fighting divisions of the late war.

The various committees are working hard on the detailed arrangements and a complete report is expected to be received at the meeting on Sunday afternoon.

whom were too feeble to make the long march from the Legion Home to the theater and thence to the cemetery, and they rode in cars furnished by Fred L. Rentz and J. F. Rentz.

They were D. M. Clark, commander of Post 100, C. A. E. J. B. Rodgers, John Caldwell, J. R. Wilson, Philip Wagner and Ed Welty. At the theater they occupied places of honor on the stage, and seats were reserved for them at the soldiers' plot in Greenwood cemetery, where the concluding exercises were held.

The address of the morning was delivered by Rev. C. H. Heaton, pastor of the First Baptist church, who served during the war as a chaplain with the 40th field artillery. His address was on "The Lure of Liberty."

High School Band Plays

The program included several selections by the high school band, under J. P. Repligle, which organization also headed the parade.

The opening prayer was delivered by Rev. D. L. Ferguson, pastor of the Highland U. P. church, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Charles Johnstone, pastor of the Central Christian church, a veteran of the World war.

Selections were rendered by a vocal ensemble from the senior high school under the direction of Miss Gladys Rich, consisting of Marian Wilkison, Laura Ramsey, Mary Virginia Roberts, Louise Mitchell, Ruth Wilkison, Clarence Lennig, Morgan Jones, Delbert Erwin Fletcher, Henry Wilkison and George Kyle.

Frank Reig delivered Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, and the song, "Soldier Boy Sleep," was given by a girls' trio, Marian Wilkison, Mary

March to Cemetery.

Following the services at the Penn theater the parade re-formed on Mercer street, marched over North to East, thence to Washington and west on Washington to Greenwood cemetery, where the ritualistic service of the Spanish War Veterans, led by Hon. Walter S. Reynolds, who delivered a brief oration calling attention to the purpose of the day and its traditions. M. L. McMillen of the Spanish War Vets served as chaplain.

In closing, flowers were strewn on the graves of the Civil war vets buried in the soldiers plot, taps was sounded by George Partington of the Sons of Union Veterans and a volley was fired over the graves by the uniformed rank, Sons of Veterans.

The parade was one of the longest seen in a number of years, a great number of the World war veterans turning out, in addition to the Spanish war vets and the various auxiliaries. Troop F members, mounted, also took part in the parade, adding a military touch.

Can War Be Justified

Rev. Heaton said in part: "There is a conviction deep down in the human heart that every human being ought to be free. All men are endowed by their Creator with the inalienable right of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. Wherever actual peril to the liberties of a people exists, there war is inevitable."

"Can anything justify war? some are asking. The answer as concerns an aggressor, is an emphatic no. But that people which chooses war rather than submission to slavery is never the aggressor."

Rev. Heaton recalled the pilgrimage of Abraham from Ur of the Chaldees to the land of Canaan, where he hoped to find for himself and his posterity, untrammeled freedom. Before three centuries had passed, the sons of Abraham were reduced to abject slavery in Egypt. In the Exodus from Egypt, the cause of human freedom again set forward. He recalled the various steps of progress in the history of mankind by which they were guaranteed further freedom and liberty, leading up to the founding of our nation in 1620, the War of the Revolution and the freedom of the colonies, and finally the war of 1861 to '65, when the slaves were freed in this country.

Task Unfinished

He recalled how the assassination of Duke Franz Ferdinand of the House of Hapsburg in Austria was made the occasion for the starting of the World War by the Imperial German Government. As the war progressed, it became increasingly apparent that a victory for the Central Powers would menace every free people in the world. In the light of the evident German objective and of her ruthless submarine warfare, it became impossible for America to maintain her neutrality.

"So we entered our fourth war for freedom since our independence," he asserted. "The war which cost 25 million lives and 406 trillion dollars. Yet the task is today unfinished. It is for us who hold sacred the memory of the heroes of all the battle fields to be here dedicated to the unfinished task remaining before us."

"We overthrew the House of Romanoff in Russia, the House of Hapsburg in Austria, and the House of Hohenzollern in Germany. But in place of these dynasties, in how many countries have powerful dictators arisen since? We have Mussolini in Italy, Stalin in Russia, Plisudski in Poland, and Hitler in Germany. Can we surely say that Democracy has gained ground?"

"Did we engage in a war to end war? Did we succeed? War is the effect of a cause. Until the cause is removed we cannot escape the effect. Where the lust of power has an opportunity it leads to oppression and the resultant destruction of freedom. The champions of freedom are never the real aggressors; they enter war in defense of themselves or others. The cause does not rest with them. The lust of power leads to conflict. To remove the lust of power means and requires a change of life."

Right Must Prevail

"The freedom which lures us will ever evade us until we obtain the last object of the war named by our late President Wilson, namely, the dominion of right. But what is right? There is the rub."

"One of the questions that is yet to be settled is the question of freedom for all men. Freedom is not lawlessness. One cannot violate the laws of nature and not suffer for it. Liberty does not mean license to do just as one pleases without regard to sound ethical standards. In the name of liberty, some teachers and parents today are committing dastardly crimes against children and young people."

"Freedom does not mean the absence of discipline. An army without discipline is a mob. A home without discipline is a scandal. A life without discipline is a disgrace. We shall never end our struggle for freedom until we learn to settle all questions, not by the rule of expediency or of advantage, but by the rule of right."

Let us, therefore, be here and now dedicated to the unfinished task which the world's benefactors have thus far advanced, sensing anew the age-long lure of liberty, let us shake off the moral indifference which characterizes this age, and having once decided that a course is right, let us follow that course wherever it leads, without regard to the possible consequences to ourselves. Knowing full well that the judge of all earth must do right and that in the last day, He will take account of every man according to the standard set before all men in the person of Jesus Christ, let us follow Him until the Truth incarnate has made us and all men free.

TWO SISTERS DEAD

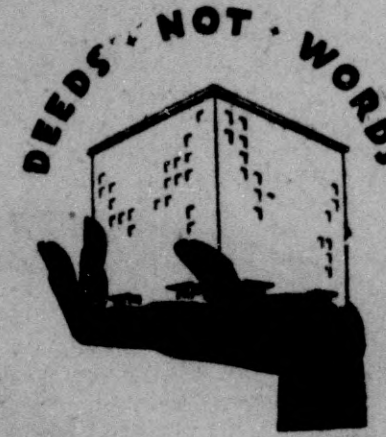

FROM AUTO CRASH
PHILLIP, W. Va., May 31.—Louise Genevieve Cross, 13, of Dartmouth, is dead, the second victim of an automobile accident that took the life of her sister Judy Adeline, 3, several days ago.

The sisters were struck by the automobile of Woodford Coontz, 28, of Bellington, near their Dartmouth home. Louise died yesterday. Judy died on the day she was hit. A coroner's jury held Coontz responsible.

...To Our Out Of Town Neighbors

My father and his brothers looked forward to Anniversary Month as an opportunity to greet old friends and renew first-name acquaintances. They were that sort of merchants. And Kaufmann's is still that sort of store.

Grandfathers bring their grandsons here and introduce them to employees whom they have known for thirty and forty years—a family store with a store family, members of which have grown grey in our mutual service.

There is no age limit at Kaufmann's for efficient and loyal co-workers. And no set retirement age. So expect to find your favorite sales-people waiting, as usual, to advise you how to spend your money most thriftily—to suggest the types of merchandise on which it will be wise, in face of fast-advancing markets, to stock up before retail prices correspondingly rise. We shall probably never be able to sell as cheaply again as during the next thirty days. We frankly hope that the country will never again endure conditions that compel manufacturers to sacrifice responsible merchandise so far under costs of production.

And while we speed the turning of the tide with a thirty-day offering of bargains that history may never repeat, it's YOUR duty to help put depression on the run by refurbishing shabby rooms, by replenishing wardrobes, by filling out linen closets from the best, the smartest and the most complete assortments Kaufmann's ever assembled to celebrate a birthday.

No job lots, no incomplete lines, no missing sizes. Only the primest, cleanest, spic-span, top-range qualities of everything.

You've been waiting to buy at rock-bottom prices. And prices STRIKE rock-bottom Thursday morning.

All services and guarantees as usual, including charges, installment payments, return privileges, and money back on demand.

Local Discussion Of The Situation Confronting Our Country At Present Time

(Column In Charge of Lawrence Co. W. C. T. U.)

NOT ALL GIRLS WANT BEER

There are several reasons why I believe that all girls do not want beer.

Being a junior in New Castle Senior high school and coming in contact with girls representing the different social classes of our people, there are only two girls whom I have heard boast of tasting beer and one other who sees no wrong in drinking beer.

Girls who have self respect or have pride in their personal appearance do not wish to try even one drop of beer or any alcoholic drink—knowing that a taste of beer can lead to the desire for alcoholic drinks and all the sorrows and disgrace that follows. They do not wish to come under the influence of a beverage that would make them act foolishly—or say and do things that they could regret.

What girl would care to walk beside a mother who was under the influence of beer—or be seen in society with a mother so intoxicated that she would be acting as though she were feeble minded. I am sure these girls would not care to drink beer and subject their future children to a disgrace that they themselves would dislike. They would want to be an honored and respected mother instead.

The majority of girls know that one drink leads to the desire for a second drink. Finally the girl drinking beer becomes noisy, silly, and quarrelsome. Often she does something shocking or destroys something of value in her efforts to please her foolish fancy. They know that beer, instead of adding to the pleasure of any occasion is the direct means of a sad ending.

So, from these reasons, I believe that beer is not wanted by most girls and a happier time is enjoyed by all without it.

SMOOTHER PERFORMANCE

IN ANNOUNCING ESSOLENE, which will be on sale June 2nd, the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania makes the above guarantee with a full understanding of the importance of such a statement by this company • The public is accustomed to fantastic and exaggerated claims in gasoline advertising. It has heard of so many "Super" gasolines—seen so many words piled upon words about "anti-knock" properties, "mileage," "quick-starting," etc., that all such descriptions have, quite properly, come to mean nothing • As leader of the industry for more than half a century, the Standard Oil Company of Pennsylvania recognizes a double responsibility to the public • First, the responsibility to pioneer in improvements and new developments — no matter how great the expense • Second, never to lend its name to a product until that product has proved its worth, and the validity of every statement made about it • Such is the position we take about Essolene. We stand squarely behind it as a great motor fuel improvement • Automobile engines have improved rapidly in the last few years. Gasoline improvement has not kept pace. Essolene was developed in the Standard Oil Research Laboratories with present motor problems and future motor trends in mind. The result is a fuel in advance of the times, basically superior to all regular priced and, with few exceptions, all premium priced gasolines • Try Essolene on June 2nd. Compare it, in any car, with the performance of any gasoline you have ever used. Essolene will speak for itself. You can supply the superlatives. Colored Orange to Prevent Substitution

NEW CASTLE FOREST RECRUITS SET UP CAMP

Foresters Reach Trout Run Camp

Youths Fit As They Arrive From Army Camp; 'Making Camp' Today

TO LIVE NOT FAR FROM MOTOR TRAIL

(Special To The News) TROUT RUN, Pa., May 31.—After a train ride from Fort Washington, Md., New Castle's ambitious foresters arrived in this mountain town yesterday and made immediate preparations to go into the local woods.

Trout Run is located on the Susquehanna trail, a little nearer to Williamsport than Bodines, the town which the army had originally announced as their forest headquarters.

A drenching rainstorm greeted the woodsmen as they left their train, but within a half an hour a welcome sun sparkled across this beautiful mountain valley.

The camp which New Castle's boys will occupy is located 2½ miles from Trout Run.

Group Fit for Woods—Every one of the 100 foresters from Lawrence county is in excellent physical shape, surviving the rigors of army camp life in commendable style.

Construction of their forest quarters is the first job the boys must do—a mess hall, shower rooms and a number of other buildings units will be erected. The youths will sleep in huts.

Enroute from Maryland to Trout Run, the boys enjoyed oranges and apples as the treat of the government.

Lincoln Wanted Marksmen, Stirring War Call Shows

Civil war volunteers, enlisted with lightning speed from different Pennsylvania counties, were expected to be rifle marksmen from the start—the posted order calling for volunteers gave that impression at least!

"I am authorized to accept at once for service," read the call which a McKean and Elk county leader sounded, "any man who will bring in with him to my headquarters a rifle which he knows how to use."

Beneath a stack of papers, S. M. Means, 101 North Jefferson street, found a printed copy of that historic call.

Game Farm Sets New Egg Record

Production Of Pheasant Eggs Reaches 7,032 In One Week

Production of ringnecked pheasant eggs at the Jordan State Game Farm reached a new high mark last week, according to statement from V. T. Warfel, superintendent.

Seven thousand thirty-two eggs were gathered from the laying fields from Sunday, May 21 to Saturday, May 27 inclusive, making a daily average of over 1,004. This is the highest week's production in this history of the farm. Its only rival was the week of May 22 to May 28 last year when the daily average for the week was 995.

The total egg production this season to Saturday, May 27 was 36,906. This is nearly 5,000 more than were produced to this date last season.

Over 7,000 young ringnecked pheasants have already been hatched in the new hatching equipment which is in successful operation. The young pheasants are doing nicely in the new colony brooder houses as compared with 4,000 hatched to this date last season. With the new colony houses equipped with electric and coal burning brooders, favorable conditions are created and maintained for the young birds, regardless of outside weather conditions at the time of hatching. This will cut down the losses which always ran heavy during the wet seasons under the old method of hatching with hens.

Congress Strives To Finish Up Big Recovery Program

Many Important Legislative Bills Need Action Before Adjournment

Most Momentous Peacetime Session Of Congress In Modern History

By PAUL C. YATES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 31.—A "tough" congress, almost "out on its feet," toiled wearily to complete the peacetime legislative task thrust upon it by President Roosevelt.

Senate and house leaders held strong hope that the terrific pace set when the president convened the special session, and continued without a moment's letup, would end not later than June 10. By then, it was believed, the final curtain would fall on the most momentous peacetime session in American history.

Conferees Meet

Senate and house conferees met to compose their differences regarding the only big piece of legislation written in congress since the session started. This measure, the Glass-Steagall Banking Reform bill, originated in the senate and house banking committees.

"I anticipate a conference agreement without undue delay," said Rep. Steagall (D) of Alabama.

Despite Secretary of the Treasury Woodin's opposition to the depositors' guaranty provisions and other major features, belief prevailed generally the president would sign the bill on receiving it from congress.

Many Unfinished Bills

The senate had before it as unfinished business the independent offices appropriation measure. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, declared, "we should dispose of it today. After that, we will take up either the $2,000,000,000 home mortgage bill or the gold clause resolution." Both of these measures, along with nearly all the others piled into the legislative hopper, were drafted by the executive department experts.

Little opposition was in store for the home loan bill but a fight loomed for the measure cancelling the gold-contract clause in all public and private obligations. Senator Glass (D) of Virginia assailed it as the rankest kind of "repudiation."

Industrial Bill

The senate was slated to take up the president's industrial recovery bill later in the week. Senate champions of a general manufacturers' sales tax, heartened by the popular reaction to disclosures in the J. P. Morgan and Company investigation, were ready to urge a broad-based levy in lieu of the income tax increases voted by the house. To meet this offensive, the Democratic high command in the senate planned a modification of the house rates. They expected this to lessen the burden upon small income taxpayers.

Mills Announces For City Controller

Former Educator Enters Lists For Republican Nomination For Controller

MARTIN H. "MIKE" MILLS

Martin H. "Mike" Mills, a property owner of 302 Boyles avenue, today announces his candidacy for the Republican nomination for City Controller, subject to the primary on September 19, 1935. Mr. Mills' statement follows:

"I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for City Controller. It occurs to me that this office is too important a one to be overlooked in the interest that will undoubtedly surround the higher paid offices of the county which will be filled this year. Your city controller is an officer who must see that the tax moneys of the city are spent in strict conformity with the law and for that reason the voter is justified in investigating the fitness of every applicant."

"New Castle has always been my home. For some years I was on the Pennsylvania railroad in the engineering department. Eight years ago I became an instructor in the trade schools of the Benjamin Franklin Junior high school, and continued in that capacity until one year ago when the school board abandoned this department in the interests of economy."

"There will undoubtedly be a number of candidates for this important office. All I ask is that the Republican voters investigate the character and fitness of each and accord me their honest consideration."

Prescriptions

The compounding of prescriptions is a measure of the usefulness of a drug store to the physician and the community.

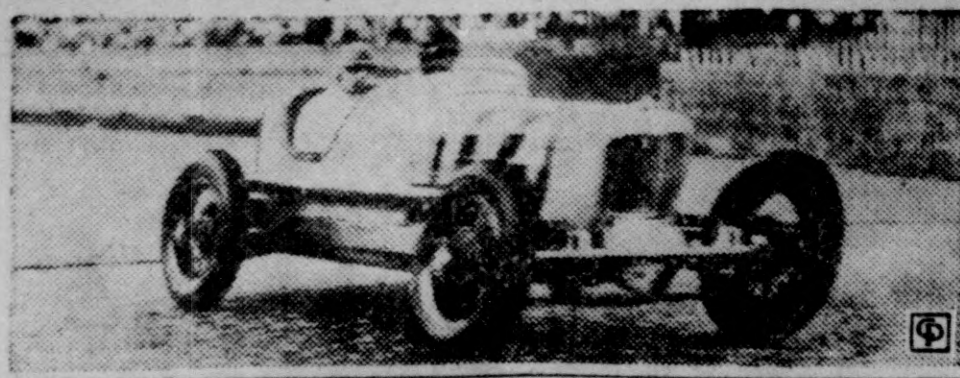

This store enjoys the confidence of physicians and their patients because we never have less sight of the true functions of the apothecary. We compound prescriptions as completely as they are registered pharmacists (R. P. C.) because every drug is of highest potency (we use whenever possible Squibb quality chemicals and pharmaceuticals) and because every available measure is followed.

These are things worth remembering when you have a prescription to be filled.

Cardinals Push Pirates For Top

Cardinals Win Two From Cincinnati; Pirates Split With Cubs

SENATORS AND YANKS WRANGLE

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service
Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 31.—The St. Louis Cardinals, who have won 53 of their 71 games with Cincinnati since 1929, are again using the Reds as stepping stones up the National League pennant path. They played Svingali with the Redlegs twice yesterday, 5 to 4 and 3 to 2, and advanced to within half a game of the league-leading Pirates.

Pep Martin's double gave the Cards a winning lead in the first game but the real hero was "Dizzy" Dean, who relieved Carleton and squelched a Cincinnati rally in the ninth. St. Louis came from behind to capture the nightcap, thanks to a damaging error by Joe Morrissey.

Pittsburgh broke even with the Cubs. Paul Waner's homer enabled Bill Swift to outpoint Burleigh Grimes of the Bruins in the first game, 2 to 1. Pat Malone bested the Cubs in the nightcap, 6 to 2. With the aid of Bill Jurgens, who hit a homer in the fifth inning and drove in two more runs in the seventh when the Cubs lit on Heinie Meine for five runs.

Home runs featured the Brooklyn-New York twin bill. The Giants took the opener, 2 to 1, on a four-bagger in the eighth inning by Manager Bill Terry, a pinch hitter, and another in the ninth by Byrne James, rookie infielder subbing for the ailing Hugh Clegg. Tony Cucinello's homer failed to help Brooklyn, but he walloped another one in the second game with a runner on base to give the Dodgers a 8 to 1 decision and hand Roy Parmelee of the Giants his first defeat of the season.

The pitching "was a gill-edged. Brooklyn got only four hits in each game. The Giants got five off Van Mungo in the first game and four off Walter Beck, Memphis rookie, in the nightcap.

The Phillies downed the Braves, 2 to 1, in a game halted in the seventh inning by rain.

Yanks Increase Lead
In the American League the champion Yankees increased their lead over Washington to three games by noosing out the Senators 3 to 2, on a hit by Combs in the ninth. Lou Gehrig hit his tenth homer, taking the lead in the American League derby, but it took the umpires twenty minutes to convince the squawking Senators that it wasn't a foul ball. Russ Van Atta, Yankee rookie southpaw from St. Paul, outpitched Earl Whitehill.

The Athletics jumped to within half a game of Washington by smacking the Red Sox down twice, 7 to 3 and 11 to 8, even though Boston made 20 hits in the second game to 13 for the A's. "Iron Man" Lefty Grove, in his new roll as daily relief pitcher, saved both games for the Mackmen. He has mopped up for the A's in seven of their last nine games, being credited with the victory in four of them.

Indians On Warpath
After "Bull" Durham of the White Sox held Cleveland to five hits, winning 7 to 2, the Indians went on the warpath, shellacked six Chicago pitchers for 23 hits and massacred the Sox 15 to 8.

Joyner White drove in four runs as Detroit downed the Browns, 8 to 6, but Herbert pitched St. Louis to a 3 to 1 victory in the nightcap.

Reminiscent of the days of his glory is this picture of Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion of the world, who is shown with his faithful retainer, "Jerry the Greek," as he put in some roadwork for his exhibition bouts with Max Baer and Max Schmeling, principals in the forthcoming bout under Dempsey's promotional banner. Jack still looks in the pink of condition.

Heroes-Goats In Big League

(International News Service)

The heroes—Lefty Grove, Athletics, and Bryn James, Giants. Grove's relief pitching enabled the A's to beat the Red Sox twice. A homer by James in the ninth inning enabled the Giants to nose out Brooklyn, 2 to 1, in the first game of a doubleheader.

The goat—Joe Morrissey, Reds. His error helped Cardinals score two runs and beat Cincinnati, 3 to 2, in the second game of a twin bill.

Finished Three Fourth Mile Ahead Of His Nearest Rival

ALFRED SNYDER FINISHES FIFTH

Frank Jerry of New Castle won the 15 kilometer race, Memorial day, at Erie, covering the distance in 59 minutes and 32 seconds, according to Garfield Davis who acted as his manager and handled Jerry in fine style. Jerry finished three fourths of a mile ahead of his nearest competitor, Alfred Snyder, also of this city, placed fifth. Jerry received a beautiful trophy. It was an Amateur Athletic association senior race through the streets of Erie. It was sponsored by General Electric.

Jerry led during the first mile when two other runners came up and the trio were bunched until the third mile. Jerry broke away from the other two and finished well out in front.

Meyer Wins At Indianapolis

Three Killed As Lou Meyer, Of California, Wins Annual 500-Mile Classic

SOUTHEAST TURN IS TREACHEROUS

By JOHN C. HOFFMAN
International News Service Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31.—They're through with their 21st assault on the time down on the brick oval at the speedway here today, and they have conquered, but what a price to pay.

For Lou Meyer, the High Gate, Cal. lad, who won the most spectacular race in the history of the international 500-mile grind, there is glory and finance.

For Mark Billman, Indianapolis; Lester Spangler, Los Angeles, and his riding mechanic, G. L. Jordan, of Lafayette, Ind., there is nothing. They are dead.

Dies of Injuries
Spangler, who figured in the mishaps at the treacherous southeast turn, died of his injuries in the field hospital after the race was concluded.

Billman was the victim of a crash that will never be explained. He lost control of his car on the southeast turn, skidded and hurtled headlong into the wall.

The mishap that snuffed out the life of Jordan occurred when Malcolm Fox's car threw a wheel and Spangler was unable to avoid crashing into the disabled speedster.

The pall of tragedy that hung over the track as mishap after mishap eliminated all but 14 of the cars drew appreciably from the amazing skill of the winner.

Meyer averaged 104.162 miles an hour to better last year's mark of 104.144, established by Fred Frame. This despite the frequent slowing of the cars by officials, due to the maddening number of wrecks and crashes.

Jacobs Scores Jack Dempsey

Manager Of Maxie Schmeling
Thinks Dempsey Is Helping Baer To Train

VERBAL SHOTS ARE HEARD FAR

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports

LAKE SWANNANOVA, N. J., May 31.—The repose of this back-country retreat, where the silence is so violent it can be heard very distinctly 10 miles away, was agitated this morning by a volley of oral reports that ricocheted off the nearby hills and bounded back against the ear drums. Little children, affrighted, ran screaming to their mothers. Strong men shuddered violently and passed by with averted gaze.

But it was only Joe (we was robbed) Jacobs, the conversational small-arms and gunnery expert, resuming his target practice after a long layoff, only this time the opposition was not in the line of fire.

The object was a member of the official family, Mr. John Dempsey, the boy promoter, who it seems has become the Jacobean wrath with some random activities in connection with the Schmeling-Baer prize fight on June 8. Briefly, Mr. Jacobs, the manager, accuses Mr. Dempsey, the promoter, of wishing to bring about a Baer victory and in support of this cited Mr. Dempsey's coaching of the rival candidate and sundry other things not in keeping with the strict neutrality of promotion.

Many Charges
Among many charges leveled at Mr. Dempsey was one to the effect that he tried to put over a "sneak punch" on Schmeling when they met in the ring informally a few days ago. Another item of the indictment charged that he was always making trips to Atlantic City and almost none to Lake Swannanova, which "looks kinda funny".

A third dealt with the supposed affinity of interests between Mr. Dempsey, Baer and Anell Hoffman, all being native sons, and it went on to cite the fact that John had promoted fights for Baer twice in the past.

Power and accuracy assured by starting backswing with left hand.

ALEX. MORRISON says:

Every swing you make, long or short, should find you pushing the club away from the ball with your left hand at the start of your backswing.

You realize that you must have a certain amount of left hand in your downswing, but few players have learned that in order to do this you must put plenty of left hand into your backswing.

Think about pushing the club away from the ball and then on your downswing just concentrate on keeping the chin back.

Knuckles Down! Plan To Stop "Gambling"

(International News Service)

LONGVIEW, Wash.—It sure will be a dreary world for the boys of this city if a bill drafted by City Attorney L. A. Dwinell, is adopted by the city council. For it contained a clause which forbids youngsters to play marbles "for keeps".

And as for the older folk there are clauses which forbid matching pennies, bridge, pinocle, billiards, golf, horseshoe, pitching, not forgetting church raffles and dice games.

Dwinell introduced this bill, after he had been asked as city attorney to prevent all forms of gambling.

CAT ADOPTS COYOTES, FORSAKES KITTENS

(International News Service)

GATEWAY, Ore.—Forsaking her own litter of four kittens, a beautiful Persian cat has adopted four tiny coyote pups and is devoting all of her time to the rearing of the strange brood, while her own kittens cry in vain.

The coyotes were well developed when found in a field and brought to the home of Willard P. Hersey. After a little persuasion the cat fed them and soon became enamored of the wild creatures. The pups were twice the size of the kittens and will soon furnish a problem of support for their foster mother.

MEN

An executive of our company will be here Thursday to interview suitable, industrious men for permanent positions. Such men should apply in person at once. If you are adaptable to this work, if you have the disposition to study and strive to acquire skill in what you do, and if you have good reputation and the will to succeed, we will employ you, and back you in work that is paying well. Qualified men from $4000, $5000, $6000 per year and higher regularly in our Pittsburgh office and throughout the entire country. Such earnings represent success and these new openings make similar success available to a few more men who think and work successfully. Our expansion program is dictated by the amazing success of an extraordinary Electrolux invention (not refrigeration). Men selected will have to take the time to learn and acquire skill and during this time will have to be satisfied to get along on nominal earnings of $125 to $250 per month. If necessary, (some men $115 to $150 per month). No deposit or investment in what you do, and if you have we are to back you. Married men of good character, 23 to 50 years, given preference. Men selected will be given complete training without charge at our factory branch sales office in Pittsburgh or in Butler if necessary. Must have use of a car, if you feel you can qualify and if you really will appreciate the opportunity this position offers, see Mr. B. S. Summers, Castleton Hotel, Thursday morning, 9 to 12. 11-18

Beer Control Bill For State Up To Pinchot

COUNTY TREASURERS

Beer Is Taxed $1.24 Per Bar-

HARRISBURG, May 3.—Carried through the house by an overwhelming majority that surprised even the most optimistic, the McClure beer control bill rested on Gov. Gifford Pinchot's desk today while the senate prepared to speed the taxation measure to enactment.

Adoption of the bill which taxes beer $1.24 per barrel will give Pennsylvania legislation over which the general assembly has battled for more than a month. Governor Pinchot is certain to sign both documents. In acting on them he may also put his pen to the constitutional convention bill.

Overwhelming Vote.
The control bill swept through the house yesterday by a 148 to 17 vote. Rep. Clinton A. Sowers, Philadelphia, co-sponsor of the regulatory and tax measure vetoed by the governor, voted in the "aye" column. The senate gave its approval to the unexpected sweep with unanimous concurrence in minor house amendments.

The regulatory legislation, which does not become effective until June 1, provides a local option for prohibition. (Continued On Page Two)

PA NEWS OBSERVES

Pa News notes that the sign reading "Safety Zone" still remains on the pillar at the Highland avenue car terminus on North Mill street. Perhaps the "B" was left out for the sake of economy.

Large numbers of persons wearing orange colored badges are to be noted on the streets of the city today. They are delegates to the Nazarene convention of the Pittsburgh district, who are here for the week. The convention sessions are held in the First Presbyterian church.

Passengers on a north-bound Highland avenue car had a new role last night. They waited for about five minutes between North and Falls streets for an auto driver to appear and get his parked car off the street car line. He didn't appear. The auto was locked. Three or four of the passengers, along with the motorman, got out of the street car and shoved the auto off the track by brute force. There are too many motorists who park their machines along this street in the path of street cars. Delays of passengers in the evening are frequent.

Officer U. G. Harper was rather surprised Tuesday in driving to work to see some kind of a small dark animal, as he thought, crossing North Mercer street at Moody avenue. The progress of the dark object was slow and his machine passed over the object. Curiosity got the better of him and he stopped and went back. His surprise was even greater than before. MacDonald Tells Home Folks, He's Pleased With American Conference

By HARRY K. REYNOLDS

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., May 3.—Keen satisfaction over the outcome of his talks with President Roosevelt, whom he described as "a man who is sincerely interested in getting things on the move in the world," was expressed by Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald on his return to England today.

Accompanied by his daughter Isabel, the prime minister reached Southampton aboard the liner Berengaria, and after a brief statement to the press, proceeded to London to lay the results of his Washington conversations before the cabinet.

"I am very pleased indeed with the whole of our transactions," MacDonald said.

"I met a man who is sincerely interested in getting things on the move in the world. We found ourselves in most complete agreement as to our objects and our talks on how to do it were of the most friendly kind."

A large crowd extended a warm reception to the returning premier and his daughter. They stood on the bridge deck as the liner hove to in the harbor.

The premier added:
"I regard rumors that Mr. Roosevelt is coming to England as most likely to be untrue."

Public Works Program Runs Into Argument

President Roosevelt's Advis-

Reviving Employment

DIFFERENCES TO BE SMOOTHED OUT

Draft Of Bill Would Authorize Issue Of $1,000,000,- 000 For New Projects

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON

WASHINGTON, May 3.—A controversy between President Roosevelt's advisers over federal measures for reviving employment today delayed action on the administration's proposed billion-dollar public works program.

A draft of the bill was reported on the president's desk. It would authorize a $1,000,000,000 bond issue to finance construction projects, designed to increase employment and start the wheels of industry. Of this fund, $150,000,000 would be set aside for eradication of slums in the great cities and the remainder divided between post roads, federal buildings, flood control and public projects.

To Develop Work
Two other bills, designed to develop work for the unemployed, were pending in Congress. One would liberalize the law regarding reconstruction finance corporation loans to states, counties and municipalities. This bill, before the Senate banking and currency committee, would set aside another $1,000,000,000 to finance "needed projects" (Continued On Page Two)

France Seeks Protection In Tariff Truce

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 3.—Inclusion of a safeguarding clause to protect the interests of France in the international tariff truce proposed by the United States today appeared virtually certain.

American officials explained the inclusion of a clause such as proposed by the French would not nullify the effectiveness of the truce. The French propose a reservation to permit France to increase its tariff duties in the event the dollar or pound takes a sudden drop during the duration of the truce. Such a drop would place France at a disadvantage in foreign markets as long as its remains on the gold standard.

State department officials said it was only reasonable to expect France to make such a reservation in view of the decline of the dollar and the uncertainty of its fluctuation while it remains unbalanced.

Acquiescence of the United States to this demand marks another victory for the French theory of "reservations" at the safety-catch in France's foreign policy.

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)
NEW YORK, May 3.—Well, let's see what scandal the evening papers have here that will bear repeating tomorrow. The House of Representatives is going to limit debate on inflation to five hours tomorrow. I wish to goodness there was way to limit individuals that try to explain it to you, to five hours. We thought Technocracy was a tough bird to get the low down on, but it's only a first reader compared to hearing a guy explain "inflation." I am going down to Washington today and hear the Congressmen bite into it.

There is one thing about it, it's made every man's intelligence equal.

Inflation Plan To Be Approved By House Vote

Huge Democratic Majority
And Insurgent Republi-

GIVES PRESIDENT
CURRENCY POWER

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 3.—The House today adopted the administration's currency inflation proposal, passed by the Senate, thus completing congressional endorsement of the currency "rider" to the Omnibus farm relief bill.

WASHINGTON, May 3.—A huge Democratic majority and a small group of insurgent Republicans today stood ready to place the stamp of approval of the house on the administration's currency inflation plan.

Despite the attacks of Republican leaders, who charged that congress is making President Roosevelt a financial dictator, Democratic chiefs were confident of rolling up 300 votes for a motion to concur in the currency inflation rider to the farm relief bill.

By the same act the house was to send the far-reaching farm relief plan together with the $2,000,000,000 farm mortgage relief project to conference with the senate, to iron out difficulties.

Inflation rider, which gives the president power to devalue the gold dollars 50 per cent, issue $3,000,000,000 in greenbacks, accept $200,000,000 silver in payment of foreign debts and ask the federal reserve board to issue $3,000,000,000 in notes was attacked by Republican spokesmen as unsound.

Steel Production Climbing Steadily

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, May 3.—Mounting production, rising prices and broadening demand are the principal characteristics of the steel industry at the moment, with ingot output now at 29 per cent of capacity as against 25 per cent a week ago, the weekly iron are review points out in its summary today.

Increases have been reported in the Chicago, Pittsburgh, Buffalo, Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern Ohio, Wheeling and valley districts. Factors cited as contributing to the current expansion of business included seasonal influences, the release of requirements that accumulated during the bank holiday, and protective buying, prompted by the fear of monetary inflation.

Motor car requirements, together with tin plate buying and a broadening demand from miscellaneous sources, account in the main for the most recent bulge in operations.

PRES. ROOSEVELT WILL GIVE MESSAGE ON RAILS THURSDAY

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 3.—President Roosevelt will submit his railroad reorganization program to congress tomorrow, he announced today.

The administration's public works program still in an uncertain state will be sent to congress next week.

A conference committee was named to consider the Parkinson bill after the Senate refused to concur in House amendments.

HARWICH, Mass., May 3.—A 48-hour period of grace to give the kidnapers of 10-year-old Peggy McMath, heiress to a fortune, an opportunity to return the child unharmed was agreed upon today by members of her family and state police.

Announcement of the "moratorium" was made by William Lee, spokesman for the family and an associate of Neil McMath, father of the kidnapped child, in a boatbuilding business here.

Two Days Grace

For the next two days, Lee announced, the telephone line in the McMath home here will be kept open to give the kidnapers free access to the house in the event they wish to take advantage of McMath's offer to pay a ransom and ask no questions.

Through Lee, McMath issued the following statement concerning the daring abduction of his daughter from her schoolroom:

"All I am interested in is the return of the child.

"That is my whole concern. I will pay all I can raise to the kidnapers, and will not prosecute if the child is returned.

"The kidnapers can feel safe to bring the child to our house here. The state police have agreed to give the kidnapers a 48-hour moratorium."

Intensive Search
The "truce" which McMath hopes will result in the return of his daughter was decided upon while the most intensive search since the kidnapping of the Lindbergh baby was in full swing here.

State police made no secret of the fact they believed they were dealing with desperate kidnapers. The father told authorities that kidnap-

Good Clues As To Identifity Of Man

Police authorities of the city who, assisted by state police, were engaged in a still hunt for the man who held up Saul Margolis at the store of Sam Levin, 1330 Moravia street, Tuesday morning and secured $253.

The authorities are hopeful of making an arrest in the case but so far have not apprehended any person. There are a number of good clues, the police state, as to the identity of the holdup man and they are hopeful of making an arrest in a short time.

Soon the mortar board appears and the sombre cap and gown, soon the graduate appears, on his brow a heavy frown, soon diplomas will appear with their glossy and heavy ink, and the world is saved again from its annual rocks and blink. Oh the graduates will tell what the matter is and why, what should be the proper steps, if the trouble we'd get by, and they'll tell us mighty quick, in a language most sedate, just why things are what they are, weather's damp and fifty eight.

AS TWISTERS RIPPED THROUGH SOUTHERN STATES

Tornadoes ripping through the south have taken a toll of nearly 100 lives, injured more than 1,000 persons and seriously damaged several towns. This shows some of the destruction at Yazoo City, Miss., where two perished and a half hundred were hurt. Arkansas and Louisiana towns also suffered.

HUNDREDS ARE GIVEN FREE GARDEN SEEDS

Crowd Assembles For Seeds Today

Opening Day's Distribution Admirably Handled; Lasts All Week

DISTRIBUTION WILL REQUIRE SOME DAYS

With swift dispatch the first of Lawrence county's 5,000 gift seed packages, obtained by the Lawrence County Emergency Relief board, were distributed to registered needy families of the district today.

At the downtown distributing point early this afternoon—a vacant East Washington street store room, just above Croton avenue—it was reported that most of the registered families whose names begin with A, B or C had collected their seeds.

On Thursday the distributors will furnish seeds to families whose names commence with D, E, F, G and H, with others expected to come on following days. Next Monday the local distribution closes. Ellwood City and other county towns will distribute their seeds separately.

Provided by the county to stimulate home gardening, the bountiful packages, carrying 22 packets of vegetable seed, will give local families a chance to raise what garden food they want this summer. The plan is part of steps taken to provide relief.

Distribution Schedule.

Dr. G. S. Bennett, chairman of the county's relief board, announced the following distribution schedule would prevail:

Today—A and C's.
Thursday—D to H inclusive.
Friday—I to M inclusive.
Saturday—N to R inclusive.
Monday—S to Z.

A force of five men was busy handling the throng of applicants today. Officials stressed that only registered families can obtain packages.

NAZARENE CHURCH DISTRICT ASSEMBLY OPENS SESSIONS HERE

mother had been a member of the Church of the Nazarene during her lifetime, then welcomed the large crowd in behalf of the city, saying the visitors would be shown every courtesy by the official family of the city, as well as by the individual citizens.

For the New Castle Ministerial association, the group was welcomed by Rev. Clifford S. Joshua, pastor of the Croton Methodist church and vice president of the Ministerial association. He welcomed the group as a Christian body and said the ministers of the city would do all they could to make the convention here a decided success, and he hoped the visitors would leave the assembly with a broader vision, a wider horizon and a richer spiritual outlook than when they had arrived.

A. W. Gould, pastor of the New Brighton church, then led the audience in the singing of "Onward Christian Soldiers."

Dr. Williams Speaks.

Mr. Jones then introduced the general superintendent, Dr. R. T. Williams of Dallas, Texas, who in a most dynamic, fiery, enthusiastic address, spoke on "The Need of the Hour." In opening his address he said: "There are two classes of persons in this world. One class is the failure. Everyone desires to be a success, no one cares to be a failure, and the best we could do toward achieving success is to emulate the life of Him, who was not a great financier, not a great statesman, not a brilliant philosopher, not a strategic general, but a soul winner who brought many people to the Lord."

"He does not represent the high class statesmen, potentates, rulers, or notorious men, but represents the ordinary, common folks, and when looking at Him and following His teachings, each one can become a success, and I would rather have the commendation of God than the praise of the whole world," he continued.

"Great characteristics were outstanding in this man, Christ, characteristics that we would do well to cultivate as our own," he went on. "Characteristics that are the need of this dark hour in the world's time of upset and tumult. The world today does not need great brains, for we have had that and the world is now in a terrible mess. Intellect should take on a more modest hue; brains alone cannot solve the problem, but in following the example of God, if men were good men much could be accomplished; if men were good in heart, in spirit, in deed, in thought, there would be no need of legislation to enforce the law. A good man, or a good woman, who is good in every sense of the word, is an asset to the community; but being good has a deeper meaning than kind deeds; no man is really good until God has touched his heart and made him good. The world today needs men of character, of fortitude, of sincerity, of honesty, in whom people have the utmost confidence."

"The second characteristic the world needs today is the power of the Holy Ghost, in addition to goodness man needs to be empowered, electrified and filled with the Holy Spirit."

"Why is it today that it is easier for the world to carry on the world program than the church to carry out the church program? Because there is more of the world spirit in the hearts of men than the power of the Holy Spirit. We need the power and spirit of God in the heart of the church."

"The last characteristic he spoke of as the need of the hour, is faith. 'People have lost faith in almost everything,' he said, 'and the world today is undergoing a revolutionary process; look at Russia, Spain, Mexico, Italy, Great Britain and even our own United States. Never in the history of the country has a president been empowered with the authority given our president of today, we ourselves are in the midst of a great change and people have lost faith in everything and are willing to try most anything; but what we need is faith in Jesus Christ, faith in the cross, faith in the empty tomb. We need a faith that will keep us steady, that will be an anchor and a ballast in the storm, that when the storm is over we will then have our faith intact in God, the Bible, religion and humanity.'

"We need faith in the heart of the church; faith to go on in spite of the hardships, the power to dig in and bring something to pass. We have tried everything else and it has failed; now let us try God," he said in conclusion.

The opening business meeting of the assembly was held this morning in the First Presbyterian and these business sessions will continue each day with evangelistic services each evening at 7:30 P. M. with empowered speakers from various places.

Thursday evening will be observed as foreign missionary evening and the speakers will be returned missionaries.

Public Works PROGRAM RUNS INTO ARGUMENT

to be undertaken by states, counties and cities.

The other bill would lend the federal government's aid to states in establishing and maintaining a national system of public employment offices. The employment service would be set up under the department of labor, at a cost of $4,000,000 a year, the states receiving all the benefits.

Advisers Differ

Some of the president's advisers demanded the public works program be postponed entirely until next session of Congress. They protested the bond market could not sustain a billion-dollar issue at this time on the heels of anticipated inflation of the currency. Those favoring the program declared the bonds could be handled easily through the federal reserve system as a part of inflation.

One administration leader declared the president would not act on the public works program for another week. He said the president was busy trying to harmonize differences among his advisers.

Peggy's paternal grandfather is Francis McMath, Detroit engineer who is reputed to be a multi-millionaire, and her maternal grandfather is William R. Kales, a Detroit industrialist who is reported to be a close friend of Henry Ford.

Taken From School

The schoolhouse from which Peggy was spirited away after the kidnappers had telephoned to her teacher, asking that she be dismissed yesterday afternoon early and advising that the family car would call for her, was a scene of excitement today.

State police questioned children and teachers and learned that two ten-year old boys, John Shaugnessy and Russell Hall, had seen Peggy enter the kidnap car, which was driven by a Negro.

"I went out to get a drink," Russell said. "I saw Peggy standing by the car. She talked to the man for a minute before she got in."

Neither John nor Russell could furnish any clues beyond the fact the kidnap car was a blue sedan. Neighbors noticed the license plates it carried or was able to furnish an adequate description of the Negro driver.

"Will you marry me—?"

and while she listened happily she remembered—

"I'm sure I could never be guilty of perspiration odor in underthings." How many girls say this. We hate to admit we could offend in such an unforgivable way.

Yet we all perspire. Underthings absorb the perspiration and there is bound to be odor. Others notice it so quickly!

Avoid Offending—
Underthings absorb perspiration odor—protect daintiness this way:

It's so easy to Lux underthings after each wearing and then you know you're dainty. Lux removes every trace of perspiration odor and saves colors and fabrics.

Ordinary soaps often contain harmful alkali which fades colors and weakens silk. Avoid them. Avoid cake-soap rubbing, too.

Lux has no harmful alkali and with Lux there's no rubbing. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux!

—they had first met at a friend's house party. Richard obviously "fell hard." Their first dance was perfect—or so she thought—and yet he didn't ask for another.

When the house party broke up he left with only a polite good-bye. She worried about it for days—what could be the matter? Would she never see him again?

One day her cousin, who was visiting her, dropped a hint. About perspiration odor in underthings, and how often any romantic interest is killed by this unforgivable offense.

It was easy to follow her pretty cousin's example—Lux underthings every day. Then, later, she met Richard again... now they're planning happiness together.

A LIST OF THOUGHTS

I can be a philosopher, but not when I have a toothache.

I can be miserable, but not when a bird is singing.

I can be smug, but not when I see a blind man waiting to cross in the crowded traffic.

I can be pessimistic, but not when a baby is smiling at me.

I can be arrogant, but not when I think of the mistakes I have made.

I can be spiritual, but not in the presence of steak and fried potatoes.

I can be physical, but not when Richard Crookes is singing "Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes".

I can be cynical, but not when I think of a mother tending a sick child.

I can be flippant, but not when I remember how common folk suffer.

I can despise money, but not when I am broke.

I can feel proud of my knowledge, but not when I look at the stars or when I see a small bird building a nest.

I can be lonely, but not in the presence of an oak.

I can be glad I belong to the human race, but not when I see a man abusing an animal.

I can despair, but not when I see men and women taking their great troubles bravely.

I can be bored, but never when I reflect that we come this way but once.

The facts, like drunken women fallen low.
Few men will bravely face;
'Tis easier to think they are not so,
And seek a cleaner place.

II Counsel

Let him who will be clever. This be you:
Honest and gentle, stout of heart and mind;
Be wide of eye to all that you must do,
But to the fault in others partly blind.

III Good and Ill

Men take for granted what is vile and base
As if themselves would do it if they could.
But calmly sit like judges on a case
And wait for further proof of what is good.

IV Words

Upon a scale that has a gentle touch.
And thus make sure he gives his fellow men
Neither too little substance nor too much.

ANIMAL'S LENGTH OF LIFE
(Oliver G. Pike in London Tit-Bits)
It is not easy to discover the length of life of our wild animals, for so many come to an untimely end. The only method which has met with success is to note the number of years they live in captivity. The pigeon will live twenty-one years. I have tried to keep jackdaws, but they are so inquisitive that I have never known one to die a natural death. A farmer was able to prove that a wild duck lived twenty five years, for this bird returned to a small pond for nesting purposes season after season, and was easily recognized.

The birds that live the longest among those found in this country are members of the crow tribe and the swans and geese. A swan has been known to live one hundred and fifty years, and a raven has just exceeded the century. The length of life of smaller birds such as the titmouse and warblers would probably be six or eight years, but there is a doubtful record of a sparrow living for forty years.

When Major A. V. Dalrymple, Prohibition Czar, was being questioned by newspapermen in Washington relative to the situation in enforcing the dry laws he became a bit miffed, this week.

Word reached the President, apparently, that Major Dalrymple might have been lacking in courtesy to his interviewers.

Shortly afterward Attorney General Homer S. Cummings received word to the effect that the President of the United States had encountered no difficulty whatever with newspapermen, at any time, and had never found any occasion to display discourtesy.

New Spirit Among Nations
Seen As Conference Result

Meetings Of Foreign Statesmen With President Roosevelt
Credited With Strong Contribution To Cooperation In Solution Of Problems

Unprecedented results are forecast for the Washington conferences between President Roosevelt and statesmen of several foreign nations, because of emphasis placed by these officials upon the friendship that has been developed in international affairs. With a few exceptions, the reaction of the country is hope for improvement in conditions and there is a tendency to believe that, with greater cooperation, depression can be conquered. Special attention is paid to the visits of Premier MacDonald of Great Britain and former Premier Herriot of France. It will be disappointing indeed if later events fail to sustain the evident enthusiasm and hope that now prevail in Washington. thinks the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL, while the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN, in an estimate of the six-point program which was suggested as a result of the opening conference, comments: "The need of re-establishing a stable international monetary standard is universally conceded. The desirability of lifting the general level of commodity prices is axiomatic. The abolition of quotas and other artificial restrictions of the free movement of goods in the international market has been stressed at all other international parleys. Expansion of world credit on sound lines will have no opposition. In theory, much may be said for a general and reciprocal reduction of tariffs, but as a matter of practical achievement it faces immense difficulties none of the least of which is the general system of Empire tariff preferences to which the British Government is formally committed. The problem of doing something for silver by increasing its monetary uses without damage to sound money principles is one that has defied solution for half a century or more."

Declaring that "the task the American President has taken in hands is of a magnitude to tax the imagination," the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER holds that he "has developed into the leader the world has been looking for." The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS and the CLEVELAND NEWS, observing that the CANBURY NEWS-TIMES approves the praise of friendship from Premier MacDonald and adds that "it is an affair of the spirit," in that "it does not rest upon alliances but upon hearts." The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS and the CLEVELAND NEWS, observing that the CANBURY NEWS-TIMES approves the praise of friendship from Premier MacDonald and adds that "it is an affair of the spirit," in that "it does not rest upon alliances but upon hearts."

The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS and the CLEVELAND NEWS, observing that the CANBURY NEWS-TIMES approves the praise of friendship from Premier MacDonald and adds that "it is an affair of the spirit," in that "it does not rest upon alliances but upon hearts." The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS and the CLEVELAND NEWS, observing that the CANBURY NEWS-TIMES approves the praise of friendship from Premier MacDonald and adds that "it is an affair of the spirit," in that "it does not rest upon alliances but upon hearts."

These personal conversations are appraised as representing "one of the greatest movements in human history," by the PORTLAND OREGON JOURNAL, which sees "these foreign statesmen journeying to America because this country is in the key position." The INDIANAPOLIS NEWS lauds "an example to many nations of compelling force," and "improving international relations." The ASBURY PARK EVENING PRESS agrees that "there is a new spirit in international affairs," and the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE attests that there is "abundant evidence of friendliness and good will among the conferees," with belief that "the American President is best situated and qualified to lead the preparations for success."

The BUFFALO EVENING NEWS states that "the present treatment" while the BIRMINGHAM AGE-HERALD observes "renewed determination to make of the economic conference in London the source of that salvation which the world needs."

"We find," says the NEW YORK SUN, "a positive declaration of the need of increasing commodity prices and of expanding credit. The conferees agreed that the nations should contemplate the reestablishment of equilibrium in international exchange and of an international monetary standard 'when circumstances permit.' The paragraph about moderating excessive tariffs and quotas is one which only suggests to the bystander that Congress will have a lot to debate about these subjects."

In view of the needs that have been presented, the OAKLAND TRIBUNE states that "it is the decline of world trade that has made serious and pertinent these considerations." The NEW CASTLE NEWS contends that "the obstacles to a common policy are not insuperable."

"It is all too possible to believe," advises the BALTIMORE SUN, "that the conversations have cut away some of the underbrush which obscures the path to sanity and recovered confidence all over the world." The NASHVILLE BANNER quotes with approval the explanation from Premier MacDonald that "the only objective is to reach a general understanding as to the method of approach," and assurance was given "that no alliance had been effected or was contemplated, but the nations were animated by a sincere desire to perform a world service."

The discussions are described by the UNIONTOWN HERALD as "exploratory," by the SPOKANE SPOKESMAN-REVIEW as "keen and sensible," by the SALT LAKE DESERT NEWS as "open diplomacy," by the ROCKFORD REGISTER-REPUBLIC as a "recovery giving one of the surest means of easing national irritations," and by the BLOOMINGTON PANTAGRAPH as "unprecedented in character."

The need of associating the questions involved with proper treatment of the armament question is brought out by the LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL, the TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL and the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION.

Argument that agreements reached lack ratification as national policies is made by the LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL, and the JERSEY CITY JOURNAL. The AKRON BEACON JOURNAL would "improve conditions in the United States and let old world countries work their own rehabilitation." The SPRINGFIELD (MASS.) UNION asserts: "To some extent, at least, the proposals which Mr. MacDonald and possibly Mr. Herriot have agreed without commitment to be put into operation in this country in the hope rather than the assurance that at the economic conference in June either the British or the French government will consent to corresponding measures affecting their interests and ours. In short, there appears to be a probability that in various ways the solution of economic problems of the world will be undertaken by the United States in advance of international action for the same end. By such a policy our Government may be fortunate if it does not give away its own advantages before bargaining begins."

Once Overs

By J. J. MUNDY

YOUR GOOD LUCK.

Often you are tempted to complain of your "ill luck."

You have had setbacks and misfortunes which have robbed you of much of the joy, comfort and satisfaction you enjoyed previously.

You are so absorbed in your own troubles that you don't see right around you those who had much more of sorrow and hardship than you.

You may be in a bad way financially, but think of the homes where death has visited and taken away loved ones and bread winners.

Think of those in poor health, unable to procure what their condition requires.

If your health is good, you have the most valuable of assets. You know persons well provided for in every way but health, and afflicted with ailments that give them not one moment free from pain and worry.

Would you trade your good health for all the money they possess? You know of families where the children often go to bed hungry.

Your children have not been subjected to that hardship. When you think of those who are more afflicted than you are, your own troubles will not seem so large. In fact with health, other troubles are insignificant.

Think of this and don't complain so much.

EXPECT SUNBURY CHAMPS WILL GO ON TO EVANSTON

'Plan To Send Brass Quintet'
Says Principal; Meet
Next Week

There was every indication today that New Castle's championship high school brass quintet would compete in the National Music and Forensic contest at Evanston, Ill., next week.

Winning over a talented group in the state-wide finals at Sunbury last Friday, the senior high school boys became eligible to enter the national contest in which brass quintets from many parts of the nation will play. Principal F. L. Orth announced that arrangements for sending the group were only in the making, but declared that "the plan is to enter them if possible." The Evanston events occur next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Two South Side Boys Are Missing

Police authorities were today requested to assist in the quest for two youths of the south side district, who left Tuesday morning for school and never arrived there, nor have they been heard of since. According to their relatives, they have been talking of going to Chicago to attend the World's Fair and may now be enroute there.

The missing boys are: Arthur Woods of Andrews and Berger streets, Clifton Flats, aged 14 years, weight 95 pounds, five feet tall and light hair. He was wearing corduroy pants and a black sweater and had no hat.

Jack Warnock of Wilson avenue, aged 15, 140 pounds, five feet six inches in height. He was wearing dark blue pants, a blue shirt, two sweaters and a coat.

Decision In Tax Protest Will Be

State

(International News Service)
BROOKVILLE, Pa., May 2.—Counsel for Dick Mayo, Jefferson county farmer, who headed a group of taxpayers against what he claimed was exorbitant taxes, today indicated they would carry to a higher court their fight for dismissal of a lien granted against his property for failure to pay his 1932 levy.
Judge William I. Darr at a hearing on an action brought by tax collector Sam Moore of Rose township, ruled that taxes for any year are due and payable within thirty days after tax notices have been sent out and demand for payment.
Attorney W. N. Conrad, counsel for Mayo, contended his client was not delinquent for three years following the year the taxes are due. Mayo is a leading figure in the Jefferson county tax league.
Final decision in the contest, attorneys claim, will be of statewide interest because of the opinion that may be placed as to when taxes become delinquent.

Unity Gathering
Attracts Nearly
Thirty From WardFour Organizations Of Local Church Represented At Presbytery Meeting

Nearly 30 from the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church, representing four prominent organizations of the church, attended the Presbytery meeting Tuesday at the Unity church, Greenfield. Some went for the morning session, others for the evening. Those who went early took their lunches and enjoyed a picnic dinner at noon. A chicken dinner was enjoyed in the evening.

Those representing the Opportunity Circle, numbering 11, were: Mrs. W. C. Patterson, Mrs. L. A. Moore, Mrs. C. E. Dungan, Mrs. Gertrude Marshall, Mrs. E. C. Hulbert, Mrs. Mary Rhodes, Mrs. F. W. Guy, Mrs. D. C. Schnebly, Mrs. George Cook, Mrs. William Leicht and Mrs. Wilkinson.

M. E. G. auxiliary was represented by six members: Mrs. Herman Alexander, Miss Ethel Scheidmantle, Mrs. G. O. Scheidmantle, Mrs. Wade Daugherty, Mrs. Evan Campbell and Mrs. Earl Guy.

The Junior Christian Endeavor sent three boys to the meeting: Clarence Horchler, Donald Welshamer and Daniel Schnebly. Mrs. G. G. Horchler, Junior superintendent, was along, as well as Rev. D. C. Schnebly, pastor of the church.

Five girls from the Westminster Guild attended: Misses Neurissa Thompson, Margaret Wilkison, Jane Leicht, Edith Carnes and Alma Smith.

The program of the day was most interesting. It proved to be one of the best attended meetings in years.

Observations
In 7th Ward

"Everytime I wash him he gets caught in a rain and gets all muddy again," a little girl in a blue dress with a little white poodle at the end of a rope signed yesterday, en route to the meat market. The brunt of yesterday afternoon's shower hit the Wampum road between Moravia and Mahoningtown, the rural letter carrier reports, while parts of the Mt. Jackson road didn't get a drop. Just one of nature's idiosyncrasies. Automobile went up Liberty street with a barber chair hitched to the rear and a young man sitting placidly in the chair. Sign on window spelled "apples". Mahoningtown postoffice operating on daylight savings time but clock there is set according to eastern standard time.

Oakridge Children
Have Incentive To Wash Behind EarsYoungsters Take Pride In Keeping Towels Free Of Smudges

The spirit of competition will do a lot of things. It will win ball games, get kids through school, make men succeed in business.

At Crawford-Oakridge children's home it is doing things, too. Keeping towels clean, for one thing. Keeping 18 faces clean for another.

It is human nature for boys and girls to be in a hurry when they wash their faces. They can very easily forget all about necks and ears during the process. What the soap and water miss they depend on the towels to get.

Not so at Crawford-Oakridge. The boys and girls have their own individual hooks in the washrooms whereon their respective towels and washcloths hang. They are very conspicuous where they are and if smudged can point accusing corners at the owners—you'd be surprised.

The youngsters take pride in keeping their towels speckless, ergo, they shine and polish the entire surfaces of their faces before going into the drying process.

LOOK-OUT CLASS
GATHERS TUESDAY

Ten members of the Look-Out class gathered at the home of Miss Aubrey Way, North Liberty street, Tuesday evening.

A social time, with "Lotto" as the main amusement, was enjoyed. Mrs. R. L. Stewart won the prize.

Lunch was served by Miss Way and her associate hostesses, Mrs. M. R. Olmstead and Mrs. Chester Johnston.

The next meeting will be in the form of a tureen dinner at the Mahoning M. E. church. Mrs. Lima Gilmore, Mrs. Mae Weaver and the members of their sections will be in charge.

BEREAN BIBLE CLASS

About nineteen members of the Berean Bible class of the Christian church met at the home of Rev. and Mrs. W. W. Sniff, 223 Northview avenue, Tuesday evening, for a business and social period.

Several special guests were present.

A lunch was served by Mrs. Sniff and her associate hostess, Mrs. Carl Houk.

In one month the class will meet at the home of Mrs. Stewart Hunt, Harlansburg road.

TO HAVE DISPLAY

The Mahoningtown Boy Scout troop No. 4 is going to put a display in the windows of John Egan's place of business, North Liberty street; the boys promise it will be well worth seeing. It is expected to be in place on Friday, May 5.

An overnight hike is being planned for Friday night by the scouts.

TEACHERS, OFFICERS

Teachers and officers of the Madison Avenue Christian church will have a meeting tonight after prayer service. Rev. Rees T. Williams, of the First Congregational church, will be present.

MCCOY BIBLE CLASS

Mrs. E. C. Burdge, of 507 North Cedar street, will be hostess to members of the McCoy Bible class of the local Methodist church Thursday evening.

CHILDREN'S CLASS

Rev. W. W. Sniff will conduct another of a series of children's classes at the local Christian church tomorrow afternoon directly following close of school.

SUNDAY SCHOOL BOARD

The Methodist Sunday school board will have a meeting following the mid-week prayer service tonight.

SEVENTH WARD PERSONALS

Mrs. Ethel McClay of Newark, O., left last evening for Evans City after spending the day with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Evans of West Madison avenue.

Improvement is shown in the condition of Mrs. George Hoagland of Duluth, Minn., who has been seriously ill following an operation, seventh ward relatives learn. Mrs. Hoagland is known here, having visited for several days in this locality last summer.

Then why not quit building air-planes and dwellings? They also are destroyed by storms.

Something to Say

not just saying something

A friend of CHESTERFIELD writes us of a salesman who had "something to say":

"I dropped into a little tobacco shop, and when I asked for a pack of Chesterfields the man smiled and told me I was the seventh customer without a break to ask for Chesterfields. 'Smoker after smoker,' he said, 'tells me that Chesterfields click with them . . . that they're milder and taste better. I sell five times as many Chesterfields as I did a while back.'"

Yes, there's something to say about Chesterfields and it takes just six words to say it—
"They're mild and yet they satisfy."

Young Citizens Will Have First Program Thursday

Hillsville

Industrial Plants Show Sharp Gain

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., May 3.—The industrial Ohio valley, especially the East Liverpool district, was added today to the "business improvement" zones, with the announcement of increased operations in the steel mills at Midland, Pa., east of here, and plans to resume work in fire clay and brick plants at Toronto and Stratton, O.

With the East Liverpool pottery plants maintaining the steadiness marked during the last two months, the Pittsburgh Crucible Steel Company at Midland resumed operations today in its No. 2 merchant mill and announced that the No. 1 mill would start work tomorrow.

Club Cottage Is To Be Opened By First Of Month

Rae Muirhead Cottage at Lakewood, owned by the New Castle Business and Professional Women's club, will be cleaned this month and will be ready for use on June 1, according to Miss Helen Hinkson, chairman of the club camp committee.

A number of improvements have been made at the cottage this spring, among them the drilling of a well and the installation of a sanitary system. Three or four picnics are already on schedule to take place at the cottage this summer.

There's a bright side. The more trouble America has at home, the less she hunts for abroad.

Italy-Argentine Officials Confer With Roosevelt

Seek Support Of Italy And Wheat Growing Argentine At Coming Economic Session

WHEAT PRODUCING LIMIT IS ASKED

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, May 3.—
Italy's support in an international program for world economic recovery and Argentina's support for reciprocal trade agreements designed to expand
American export markets in South America was to be sought by this government today in conversations with Italian and Argentine representatives.

Delayed half a day by fog at the entrance to New York harbor, Guido
Jung, Italian minister of finance, was here to open discussions with President Roosevelt and the American experts. He had dinner with the president at the White House last night and at that time touched briefly on the chief topics to be discussed.

The conversations with the Argentine representatives were to be continued at the department of agriculture, with both Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Assistant Secretary Tugwell sitting in with Tomas Le Breton, Argentine ambassador to France and special representative at the economic discussions here, and Felipe Espl, Argentine ambassador here. How far Argentina will go in an international agreement to limit the production of wheat was one of the questions to which this government was eager to obtain an answer.

NEW CASTLE TUESDAY MAY 9 ONE DAY ONLY

HERE COMES THE BRIDE, HER BRIDESMAIDS, MOTHER AND A GHOST OF GRANDMOTHER'S WEDDING DAY

Here comes the lovely bride—all two of her, as the boys say. The one at the left is dressed in lacquered white satin, simply cut and trimmed with chiffon pleating, which edges the hem of the long train. The bouquet of orchids and lilies of the valley is in keeping with the gown's lines. The other bride is dressed in organdie, also trimmed with ruffles and with lace insets in the bodice. And next to her, fifth in the picture and inset, is the ghost—such a sweet little ghost—of grandmother's wedding day. The white silk dress was made entirely by hand and it adorned a Washington bride of the season of 1858. The bride's mother, inset, left of the brides, is robed in beige lace with brown kolinsky fur outlining the jacket. At the extreme left is a cafe au lait taffeta bridesmaid's dress with voluminous ruffled sleeves and Watteau hat. Flower muffs are quite the latest thing in bridesmaids' bouquets. At right is a lace and net gown with epaulets made of velvet petals, which are repeated in the tiny muff, carried by the model, which also has real orchids in its composition, and a shower of yellow freesias, a charming color scheme for the bride's attendant.

Forestry Workers Sticking To Jobs

Four Civilian Conservation
Colonies Hard At Work
In Allegheny Forest

Rigors Of Camp Life Tough-en Citizens; Small Percentage Are Deserting Camp

By GRAYDON F. SMART
International News Service Special Correspondent

KANE, Pa., May 3.—Bronzed by the sun and toughened by a week's toil in the forest, members of the four civilian conservation corps colonies in the Allegheny national forest are paying little heed to the pangs of nostalgia, if any, or to the urge to go A. W. O. L.

Published reports that nearly 25 per cent of the unemployed boys at the Fort Hoyle and Camp Meade reforestation conditioning camps in Maryland already had checked out prompted International News Service to investigate conditions in this area.

This correspondent toured each of the four colonies established in the Allegheny national forest and learned that less than one per cent of President Roosevelt's forestry troops have deserted to date.

Not Many Desert
Only eight of the 864 men encamped, the largest field force in the nation, have gone "over the hill."

Army officers interviewed expressed admiration of the morale of the men who, they said, had maintained remarkable fortitude throughout the early period of hardship encountered during the two weeks at the conditioning camps, the long hours enroute to the camps and the one week devoted to building their forest homes.

In some quarters, soon after the reforestation program was launched, welfare workers expressed the belief that as high as 50 per cent of the boys enrolled would desert. They pointed out that many of the youths had not been employed for several years and most of them had never worked at all, having reached maturity since the industrial crisis began. Accordingly, they held, a large percentage had become accustomed to loafing and would be unable to find their proper niche.

Youths Like It
The record of the 856 men remaining in the Allegheny forest appears to be a direct refutation of this theory. Not only have they been following the well-known early-to-bed, early-to-rise program but they have had plenty of work and a few privations thrown in during the past three weeks.

And they say they like it! "Everything's fine," commented one youth at the Sugar Run camp. "The grub is good and the work is not too hard."

He said he had been on one meal a day, and a pretty slim one at that, while at home and he's highly in favor of this new habit of tucking the napkin under the whiskers and wading into three squares a day.

Helping Family
Capt. F. R. Chamberlain, regular army officer from Fort Monroe, Va., who is in charge of the Sugar Run camp, related a striking example of the economic benefits accruing from the program. One of his boys is sending $25 a month home to his parents which makes payments on their home and saves them from the eviction which would have followed if the lad had not enrolled in the forestry army.

"That boy told me he would never let his folks down," regardless of the hardships he encountered," asserted the officer. "And his spirit is typical of the men we have in this camp."

Captain Chamberlain's command is composed of 214 negroes, 132 from Pittsburgh and 82 from Philadelphia.

Very Little Trouble
"The only trouble we have encountered with the boys thus far," he said, "occurred the first two days in camp when the Philadelphia lads got the idea that the Pittsburgh boys were getting a little more chow than they were, and the Smoky City boys thought just the opposite!"

"Of course this was absurd, as they ate together. They realized the absurdity and soon became a united camp.

Sing Spirituals
"The other night they sang spirituals for three solid hours and the harmony they achieved was amazing. Parts of the songs were sung by different groups throughout the camps with the entire company joining in the choruses. How they did it without any practice together, I don't know."

The officer revealed that last Sunday pastors of five different denominations in Bradford, Warren and Kane visited the camp and held services. Each service was well attended and similar services will be part of the camp life for its duration.

Rattlesnakes
Apparently the only concern of the boys in the Sugar Run camp is regarding the rattlesnakes, which woodsmen have told them infest the region in which they will work.

"I wouldn't be tickled to meet up with one of them snakes," one recruit observed.

"Oh, they won't hurt you," a bystander interpolated.

"No Suh, they won't," retorted the recruit. "Not if I see them first!"

Eight Deserters
Recognizing the danger which lurks in that particular area, forest service men who will direct the actual work are preparing kits with snakebite serum for each crew in the field.

The eight men who have deserted the Allegheny forest contingents thus far were from the Heart's Content Camp, near Warren, and Dunkle's Corner, northwest of Kane. The Sugar Run and Feeble Dell camps are intact. A fifth colony of 215 men will be established nine miles south of Kane this week, bringing the Allegheny force to 1,071 members.

Announces Cast For Senior Play

Dramatics Coach Selects High School Seniors To Appear
In Play

Miss Clara Hartsuff, dramatics coach at the senior high school, has announced the cast for the senior class play, "Seven Keys to Baldpate", as follows:

Elijah Quimby—Bill Bumbaugh.
Mrs. Quimby—Julia McCoy.
William Hallowell Magee—Gene Brotemarke.
John Bland—Paul Eagan.
Mary Norton—Betty Joshua.
Mrs. Rhodes—Marion Wilkison.
Peters, the hermit—Adrian Heat-

Myra Thornhill—Martha Jane Longstreet.
Lou Max—Ambrose Casey.
Jim Cargan—Charles Campbell.
Thomas Hayden—Sammy Dennis.
Jiggs Kennedy—Rex Rowland.
The owner of Baldpate—John Stump.
With this able cast the mysterious happenings of one night in a mountain resort closed for the winter are being rehearsed on the high school stage with much gusto. Mountain folk, a journalist, a newspaper reporter and a hopeful widow mingle in melodramatic scenes with gunmen, political grafters and policemen. The student actors are undoubtedly working hard for a successful performance, but they are enjoying the experience of stepping out of themselves and being someone else for a season. They are taking a long step from their normal lives this time.

Mrs. Clark Gets Hearing Thursday

Cleveland Woman, Husband
To Answer Theft Charges
Before Alderman

Facing charges placed by the New Castle Dry Goods company and Chief of Police John F. Haven, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Clark of Cleveland were held in the Lawrence county jail today for a hearing on Thursday afternoon before Alderman Wallace J. Ewing.

Mrs. Clark is charged by the local store with larceny and receiving stolen goods. Chief Haven charged her husband with being an accessory.

Notified promptly of the robbery last Saturday night, city police wired Youngstown police to halt the couple, a description of which had been furnished by the store. Mrs. Clark was returned here that night, but her husband delayed returning until yesterday. It is alleged that Mrs. Clark took five dresses. Bail for the two was set at $1,000 each, but they went to jail in default of it.

They tortured 15 motor cars . . . TO MAKE A BETTER FUEL

DAY after day, last August, a score of engineers lashed cars up and down one of the toughest roads in the Allegheny Mountains. The men represented thirteen great automobile and refining companies, a scientific research society, a famous university. They were pooling their knowledge in one great experiment . . . and when they got through, more was known about what actually goes on inside an engine than had ever been known before. ATLANTIC engineers shared in this experiment. They confirmed their belief in the supreme quality of ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH. But the discoveries which were made gave them clues for further improving this fine fuel. For months they have been carrying on research . . . in the laboratory and in the engines of the 1200 Atlantic trucks and passenger cars from Maine to Florida. They have experimented with new crude oils, new equipment. And at last they have produced a NEW WHITE FLASH!

That new fuel will be here SATURDAY

You'll have a chance to try it, SATURDAY. And though superlatives are distasteful to most of us, you'll probably have to depend on them to describe the NEW WHITE FLASH to your friends. There has never been anything like it before.

• It has, we believe, more power than any other fuel ever offered at or near its price. Hills melt away before it.

• It has such remarkable pick-up that those who have tried it say it has no equal in this respect.

• It will bring you a smoother-running engine . . . because its secret formula insures an even charge to every cylinder.

• It will start your engine quicker. Warm it up with less use of the choke. Give you greater mileage than ever.

And by giving you these premium qualities at regular-gasoline price, it will save you many dollars . . . at a time when every dollar counts. Wait for it! Try it! Expect great things from it! The NEW WHITE FLASH is powerfully better in every way.

Camp East Brook Is Being Put In Shape For Season

The buildings of Camp East Brook, the summer resort for girls owned by the New Castle Y. W. C. A. is being cleaned and put into shape for the camping season which is just a few weeks away. The dining room, dormitory and cottage are in pretty good shape and will not need many repairs.

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON, D. C., May 3.—Pennsylvania ranked third of the states in the number of gallons of gasoline taxed last year but came only fourth in the actual amount of such tax collected, the bureau of public roads reported today.
During the year 1,009,663,827 gallons of gasoline were sold and taxed in the Keystone state. From this tax, receipts of $30,800,915 were realized.

STOCKS

Stock Market Is Irregular

Price Changes Are Rather Rapid; Rally Follows Profit-Taking

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, May 3.—The stock market went through a series of bewildering price changes in the early dealings today.
Strength in the dollar brought a wave of profit-taking and the list followed 1 to 3 points in which most of the losses were recovered after which further profit-taking developed.
Utilities and the farm stocks bucked the trend. The former were stimulated by the good showing of the week's power figures while the latter followed wheat and cotton up.
Steels were supported by the further improvement in the industry. Rail stocks were down sharply, losses running to 3 points.
Industrialists continued to experience difficulty on rallies and ruled lower while the motors sagged on heavy profit-taking.
The oils were weak, losses running to 3 points, on further unfavorable dividend news. Standard of California halved its $2 dividend following omission of the so-called vacuum payment yesterday.
Trading was active. The ticker lagged most of the first hour when trading ran at a 5,000,000 share day pace.

New Scenery To Be Seen In Senior Play

Much Of Stage Setting For Lincoln Auditorium Owned By School

ELLWOOD CITY, May 3.—Something unusual will be experienced on Friday evening when the seniors of Lincoln high school will present their class play, "The Goose Hangs High". The play will be given with a setting which is nearly all owned by the school.
Little by little for the past four years graduating classes have contributed in materials or money and obtained necessities for the Lincoln stage. To date two or three different sets of scenery, a furniture suite, rugs, stage curtains and a number of costumes are owned by the school. Besides affording the largest seating capacity in the city, the Lincoln auditorium is one of the best equipped in this part of the state.
As occurred last winter, the public will be given an opportunity to view an entirely different stage setting and new scenery. A play and cast have been carefully selected by the coaches, the Misses Mary Elizabeth Braham and Elizabeth McKnight.
The cast of 13 is exceptionally clever and capable. A number of senior student committees have been working frantically for the past few days in taking care of all the requirements in giving such a production.

The Governor Says

What Is Going On
In Harrisburg—
And Why

By GIFFORD PINCHOT
Governor of Pennsylvania

Local taxation was one of the most important problems confronting the farmer, the business man, and the home owner when the legislature convened in January.

Local taxation remains just as critical a problem as the legislators prepare to go home. They have done little or nothing to lift the local tax burden.

The legislature's failure to reduce local taxes is not due to lack of knowledge or information. Time after time I have explained how tens of millions could be lifted from the local taxpayer. That would mean tax reduction where tax reduction is most needed. The tax burden that counts is the real property taxes levied by counties, cities, boroughs, townships, school districts and poor districts.

One of the most unnecessary and wasteful expenditures which burdens the local taxpayer is the fee system of collecting local taxes. In the state, Philadelphia excepted, a total of $7,891,680 could be saved by abolishing the fee system.

But so far the influence of the tax collectors' lobby has been more effective than the influence of the people who pay the taxes, and the collection fees.

There are more than 2,500 individuals engaged in the collection of local taxes in Pennsylvania. Each contributes to the upkeep of the lobby. That lobby is effective. Only here and there in recent years have any inroads been made into the tax collectors' sinecure in Pennsylvania.

Ohio has systematized its tax collections on a salary basis. The cost of tax collection in Ohio is one-fifth of what it is in Pennsylvania.

Abolition of the archaic poor board system of Pennsylvania would save local taxpayers $4,000,000 every two years. I have urged that 67 county units be substituted for the present 425 poor boards. The saving to local real estate taxpayers in two years by reducing the number of third and fourth class school districts from 2,600 to not more than 500 would amount to $6,300,000.

And so it goes. The Republican organization has dodged the issue of relieving local taxpayers throughout the present session of the legislature. It cannot dodge it forever.

As the people come to realize how much of the taxes they pay goes into the tax collector's pockets and from there into the coffers of political organizations, they will rise up in their might and demand that the real tax burden of the people—the tax on real estate—be lightened. I venture to say that this issue will be one upon which future elections will be won and lost.

And I warn the Republican organization that unless it changes its front on this vital subject it will have reason to regret it.

Abandoned Tots Are Identified

Braddock Man Identifies Pictures Of Abandoned Girls In Paper

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, May 3.—A newspaper picture today apparently ripped aside the mystery shrouding the identity of two little blue-eyed girls, abandoned at a Washington, Pa., Bus Terminal last Saturday.

Frederick Hinkel identified the children from a newspaper photograph as Helen, 6, and Dorothy, 4, daughters of Harry Matheoney of Cincinnati, Ohio.

Matheoney formerly lived near the Hinkel home in Braddock. His first wife, mother of the tots, died a year ago in New Kensington hospital. Matheoney subsequently remarried and moved to Cincinnati, Hinkel said.

While police seek identity of the person or persons who abandoned the children, the latter play happily at the Children's Home at Arden Downs.

Police would like to find "the giggi man."

When questioned as to who abandoned them in the Terminal, Helen's insistent "I don't know" was interrupted by Dorothy's childish chant, "the giggi man."

Presbyterial Meets In Greenfield Church

Delegates From Churches In Shenango Presbytery Have Annual Conference

The annual meeting of the Shenango Presbyterial, which includes 42 Presbyterian churches in the district, was held Tuesday in the Unity church, Greenfield, of which Rev. William C. Ferver is pastor, with 305 delegates registered for the afternoon session and many more attending in the evening.

The session opened at 10:30 a. m. with Mrs. Mary Grace of Unity church leading the devotionals and Mrs. Alice Beatty of the host church extending greetings. The response was made by Mrs. R. J. Fredericks of the Calvary church, East New Castle.

The secretary's report was read and it was found that all societies had had a most encouraging year. The morning address was given by Mrs. Samuel Higginbottom, a missionary returned from India, who had worked among the lepers, and her talk was most inspirational.

Lunch was served in the church and the afternoon session convened at 1:30.

Mrs. S. A. Kirkbride of New Wilmington had the worship period and the roll call was answered by delegates of the 40 societies in the district.

Mrs. Earl Guy of the Mahoning church read several letters from missionaries, and Mrs. Higginbottom again spoke, as did Miss Marian Hutchison of the national board.

Officers Named. Reports of committees were given and the next meeting will be held in May, 1934, at Ellwood City. A new office was created, that of secretary of a spiritual life group, and Mrs. Howard Magill was named to fill this office, as well as that of field secretary.

Mrs. J. H. McClure was named vice president of the New Wilmington district; Mrs. Newell McKibben, New Bedford, was named as secretary of white cross work; Mrs. Paul Marshall of Sharon, secretary of overseas work, and Mrs. R. R. Throop of Bessemer, secretary of intermediate groups.

Mrs. E. C. Porter of Ellwood City is president of the Presbyterial.

A young people's banquet featured the dinner hour and the evening service convened at 7:30 with the young people of the Unity church leading the worship period.

Reports were made from the group secretaries and special music was given by a quartet from the Calvary Presbyterian church.

Mrs. Norine Ficus of Sharon presented the banner for attendance to the Westfield church and Miss Hutchison gave a most inspiring address on "Mission Work".

The Unity young people had some special music and Rev. William Ferver pronounced the benediction.

Apparently the design or the construction of the color scheme of the bathroom wall paper didn't suit the wren, or else the rent was too high.

This is no advertising plug but if you want to hear something you won't forget, be at the Cathedral tomorrow night. The Third Annual Music Festival of the New Castle schools will be presented and customers this is going to be good.

Heard one of the choruses rehearse yesterday, the Terrace Avenue chorus and there may be a number of the others as good, but they'll have plenty of work being any better. The Terrace youngsters have a chorus with a military swing to it, and running through it is a little pantomime by a drummer boy and some other lads.

Their sense of rhythm is accurate, their voices are fresh and clear and melodious, and the music instructor of that building has them trained to a fine edge. Haven't heard any of the other building choruses, but you can depend upon it that they also are good. Just off hand I can't think of any better way to spend an evening than listening to a thousand boys and girls presenting a music festival.

Tomorrow's tea will in all probability be well attended. It is the first time that such an event has been conducted by the local "Y."

You know it's spring up at the Terrace building. Half of the youngsters, or it seems like half, are in

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Those high pressure lads who are located in one of the automobile agencies are smoking cigars this week. On one of the salesmen, who was not celebrating a wedding, a birth, or a horse race. Seems that the boy hit the numbers for a dollar and a quarter. That may not sound much like important money to you and you, but it means that the number writers paid him 500 to 1. That is money.

This is moving weather for humans and even the birds are out hunting them. And apparently the market is glutted with good bird holes or something. Here's the story that Herbert Horton, the Boy Scout director tells.

The scouts have made a lot of bird houses this spring which have been in the Boy Scout offices for a past week or so. Haven't heard any of them in flew a wren looking for something reasonable and modern. Flying around the room the wren examined all the bird houses and then left.

Apparently the design or the construction of the color scheme of the bathroom wall paper didn't suit the wren, or else the rent was too high.

You know it's spring up at the Terrace building. Half of the youngsters, or it seems like half, are in their bare feet, and the rooms are in competition to see who gets 100 per cent bare footed attendance. The reasons for bare feet are obvious, but gosh you kind of envy them at that.

Boys and girls alike are in "white turtles", which means a savings of shoe leather and a lot of fun for the youngsters. Maybe you never went bare footed when you were a kid. And stumped your big toe, or cut your heel on a piece of glass, or had to wash your feet every night before you went to bed. Boy that feet washing job every night was just punishment, that's all.

Down in North Carolina, between Asheville and the Georgia line to the south, and the Tennessee line to the north, farming requires contortionists. The farmsteads go up the sides of mountains that are pitched nearly as steep as the roof of a house, but somehow they manage to get along.

Here in New Castle we have an example of North Carolina farming. Down on Pearson street between Taylor and Division, the whole hillside has been turned into a garden and what a job that must have been. The hill is almost too steep to climb, yet it is laid out in well groomed beds, with a series of stone walls running criss cross, to protect the plots from washing down the gill in a rain storm.

Usually that hillside looked like the outpost of Desolation. Weeds and cans, and old boxes, stones and debris of a hundred sorts made it a picture of agricultural neatness, ready to blossom out with beans and carrots and succotash.

You really can't appreciate just what an immense acreage is under cultivation this year until you drive around the city. In every part of it, north, east, south and west, there are garden plot laid out, all of them ready for seed and some of them showing green where the onions and lettuce have pushed their way through as the advance guard of good eats.

Seems to me that a vegetable show at the end of the season would be a good thing. A couple of inexpensive prizes hung up would attract exhibitors, and we could have a miniature fair.
